EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

CORNELL POPULATION CENTER

Assistant or Associate Professor of Rural Sociology, Penn State. The Department of Agricultural Economics, Sociology, and Education, College of Agricultural Sciences, seeks applicants with expertise in spatial data methods to fill a tenure track appointment at the advanced Assistant or Associate Professor level. The position is co-funded with Penn State's Social Science Research Institute (SSRI) and Population Research Institute (PRI). This is a 9-month, full-time appointment with half-time administrative responsibilities as Director of Penn State's Geographic Information Analysis (GIA) Core, and half-time research, teaching, and service responsibilities in Rural Sociology. Ph.D. in rural sociology, sociology, demography, or related field. Open until filled.

Research Support Specialist II-22709, CISER/CRADC, Cornell University. This position performs the Data Custodian role in support of the Cornell Restricted Access Data Center (CRADC) secure data services environment. Under supervision of the Cornell Institute for Social and Economic Research (CISER) Data Custodian/Senior Research Associate this position will: Manage the project and user account process from setup to termination, including working with the data provider, researcher, Office of Sponsored Programs (OSP) and the Institutional Review Board (IRB). Maintain associated information within the Database Management System. Manage the file transfer request process with users, determining the appropriateness under the individual agreement with the data provider and the CISER data security plan. Open until filled.

Research Fellow/Research Associate, Historical Census Projects, Minnesota Population Center. The Minnesota Population Center (MPC) seeks to fill a new opening for a research fellow or research associate to work on the historical census projects, which deal primarily with U.S. census data no longer subject to confidentiality restrictions. This unique and vast collection includes hundreds of millions of records representing every American from 1790 to 1940. These raw data require analysis, cleaning and logical editing. Current MPC projects focus on developing exhaustive databases for 1850 and 1940, and a usable series for the entire span from 1790 to 1940. Various future projects are envisioned, including linking individuals across multiple censuses over time. All of the historical census data are ultimately released through the IPUMS-USA web dissemination system (usa.ipums.org). Open until filled.

Research Fellow/Research Associate, Terra Populus, Minnesota Population Center. The Minnesota Population Center (MPC) at the University of Minnesota seeks a research fellow or research associate to contribute to the Terra Populus (TerraPop) research team in the areas of data gathering and data preparation as well as outreach and reporting. TerraPop is a National Science Foundation DataNet project. The position will work with the project manager, research assistants, IT staff, and other research staff to collect, prepare, and develop dissemination tools for population and environmental data. Open until filled.

Research Associate, Urban Institute. Urban Institute's The Justice Policy Center is seeking researchers who can work collaboratively on a variety of projects aimed to enhance and measure the impact of public safety and criminal justice operations, initiatives, and practices. These projects include the conceptualization of research designs and methodologies as well as the statistical and econometric analysis of criminal justice policies and programs. We are seeking individuals who possess a strong public policy background, an interest in data analysis, and a desire to enhance their research skills. Ph.D. in Criminology, Public Policy, Economics, Sociology, or other similar social science field. Open until filled.

Research and Policy Analyst, University of Virginia. The Demographics Research Group of the University of Virginia's Weldon Cooper Center for Public Service invites bright, creative, and motivated individuals to apply for a Research and Policy Analyst position (posting #0613506). This position requires a graduate degree in demography, sociology, economics, geography, statistics, public policy, or related fields. Proficiency in SAS, STATA or R is required, as are excellent oral and written communication skills and commitment to work in a team-focused environment in service to the Commonwealth of Virginia. Masters degree required, Ph.D. preferred. Open until filled.

CORNELL POPULATION CENTER

Senior Research Associate, Demographic and Health Surveys \(DHS\) Program. ICF International, which implements the Demographic and Health Surveys (DHS) program, is seeking to hire a Senior Research Associate to work on analytical studies on demographic and health issues in developing countries. The researcher will conduct data analysis, systematic literature reviews, and prepare publishable multi-country reports and papers. The researcher will also help to conduct analysis workshops and provide training and analytical assistance to collaborators from developing countries. Ph.D. in a relevant social science or public health field (demography, behavioral sciences, epidemiology/biostatistics, international health). Open until filled.

Research Scientist/Associate, Population Research Institute, Pennsylvania State University. The Population Research Institute (PRI) and the Social Science Research Institute (SSRI) at the Pennsylvania State University are seeking to hire a Research Scientist/Research Associate (job#: 40990) with expertise in the areas of GIS and spatial analysis. As the research scientist will meet with faculty in many disciplines and encounter diverse types of data and methods, the applicant should have a PhD in a relevant field (sociology, geography, economics, etc.), and possess a broad array of skills in research methods with an emphasis on spatial statistics and GIS applications in the health and social sciences; experience in the area of network data and analysis would also be a plus. Experience and high levels of familiarity with a diverse set of health and social science data sets is preferred. Open until filled.

Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor of Economics, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The Economics Department of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill invites applications for a tenure track or tenured position at the assistant, associate, or full professor level in the field of applied micro economics. The applicant must have a research record in population-related fields such as labor, health, education, and /or family economics, and will have an opportunity to be a fellow of the Carolina Population Center. Open until filled.

Assistant/Associate Professor of Political Science and Sociology, European University at Saint-Petersburg \(Russia\). The UBS Professor of Sociology will teach courses, conduct research, and give counsel on studies of social stratification. The ability to develop interdisciplinary approaches to the issues of wealth distribution and different forms of power combining insights from economic sociology, political economy, organizations theory, and political science would be a crucial advantage. A particular emphasis should be put on research methods, which should include quantitative methods. The professor's principal role would be to produce world-class research on emerging patterns of stratification, dominance, and poverty, on social inequality, the sociological profile of newly wealthy groups, and to contribute to public discussions on the subject. Open until filled.

Research Scientist - Early Childhood, Child Trends. Responsible for planning and executing major social science research projects in consultation with other colleagues and/or other organizations. Designs research approach and selects appropriate quantitative or other tools of analysis. Performs analysis; writes and presents reports; draws policy inferences. Must develop and write proposals. May function as principal investigator/project manager for research projects. Ph.D or equivalent is required. Open until filled.

Research Scientist, Youth Development, Child Trends. Responsible for designing, planning, and executing major education research projects in consultation with colleagues. Designs research approach. Guides data collection, performs quantitative and qualitative analyses; writes and presents reports for various audiences; draws inferences for policy and practice. Must develop and write proposals. May function as principal investigator/project manager for research projects, including managing research analysts or research assistants. May serve as a point person for communication between research partners or with clients. Ph.D. in economics, psychology, political science, public policy, sociology, or another social science. Open until filled.

Research Scientist - Reproductive Health & Family Formation, Child Trends. Child Trends has an opening for a Research Scientist in its Reproductive Health and Family Formation research area. Current research projects focus on adolescent and young adult relationships, sexual activity, and contraceptive use; unintended pregnancy and childbearing; male fertility behaviors; and nonmarital childbearing and union formation. These projects use data from the National Survey of Family Growth, the National Longitudinal Study of Adolescent Health, the National Longitudinal Survey of Youth 1997 cohort, and the Early Childhood Longitudinal Study (Kindergarten cohort and Birth cohort). Experience with one or more of these data files is preferred. Requires PhD-level knowledge and 1-2 years of post-doctoral job experience. Open until filled.

Spatial Studies Postdoctoral Fellowship, Brown University. Brown University announces a likely opening for one or more Postdoctoral Research Associates that may be of interest to social demographers and human geographers. The starting date is flexible, but could be as early as June 1, 2014. The initial appointment will be for a one-year term that may be renewed for a second year.
