EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

U. S. Census Bureau Recruiting at the 2015 Population Association of America Annual Meetings \(San Diego, CA\).

The U.S. Census Bureau has full-time and summer internship opportunities for qualified U.S. citizens in the areas of geography, demography, sociology, economics, and related social sciences. We are looking for candidates at all levels of education. Training in demographic analysis, survey research, geographic information systems, and/or quantitative data analysis of large datasets is preferred. These openings offer the opportunity to work on one or more of the following topics: population distribution; population estimates and projections; housing; income; disability; health insurance coverage; education; and migration. Representatives will be recruiting during the Population Association of America (PAA) annual meeting in San Diego, CA. We will conduct 30 minute informational recruiting sessions during the conference (April 30 and May 1) from 9:00 am to 5:00 pm. Please email David Zaslow to sign up prior to the conference or visit the Census Bureau's exhibition booth during the conference.

Research Analyst, Harvard Center for Population and Development Studies. The Harvard Center for Population and Development Studies (HCPDS) is a University-wide initiative, dedicated to interdisciplinary research focused primarily on population change, socioeconomic development, and public health. The Center has recently embarked on a longitudinal program project (P01) called Health and Aging in Africa: Longitudinal Studies in

Cornell University

CORNELL POPULATION CENTER

Three INDEPTH Communities (HAALSI) funded by NIH. The Research Analyst will be responsible for management of all the HAALSI primary data collection effort. Duties will include: Daily monitoring and review of household and individual survey and biomarker data, as well as clinical assessments and lab results; Data cleaning including recoding, relabeling and constructing new variables and scales; Producing tables, charts, graphs for data monitoring as well as for statistical analyses of survey data; Providing analytic interpretations and results in preparation for reports and grant proposals; and supervising students. Ph.D. in health economics, econometrics, biostatistics, epidemiology or related field preferred. Open until filled.

Open Rank Professor of Sociology and Criminal Justice, Eastern New Mexico. Eastern New Mexico University's program in Sociology and Criminal Justice seeks applications for a full-time position to begin in August 2015. Appointment will be at a rank commensurate with academic training and experience. Desired areas of concentration include teaching and research interests in rural sociology and stratification, expertise in general sociology, race/ethnicity and/or gender issues, social psychology; immigration and borderlands policy. Open until filled.

Lecturer\(s\) of Sociology and Demography, Princeton University. The Department of Sociology at Princeton University has an occasional need for lecturers (part-time and/or full-time) to teach or co-teach in assorted courses in Sociology and Demography. Applicants are expected to have their Ph.D by September 1, 2015. Please provide a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and a statement of teaching interest. Applications received by March 15, 2015 will be given full consideration for both fall and spring semester teaching. Deadline: March 15, 2015.

Postdoctoral Research Associate, Washington State University. The Postdoctoral Research Associate (Social Scientist) will work as part of the project team, specifically the Technology Adoption Working Group headed by Dr. Jessica Goldberger (Rural Sociologist) in the Department of Crop and Soil Sciences (<http://css.wsu.edu>) in the College of Agricultural, Human, and Natural Resource Sciences (<http://cahnrs.wsu.edu>). This work is part of a large, multi-institutional, multi-disciplinary project funded by the U.S. department of Agriculture's Specialty Crop Research Initiative (SCRI). The position is a temporary, 12 month, full-time position with the ability to renew annually, pending funding and successful review and progress. Deadline: March 20, 2015.

Post-doctoral Research Fellow in Social Demography, Arizona State University. The T. Denny Sanford School of Social and Family Dynamics invites applications for a full-time Post-Doctoral Research Associate with an anticipated start date of August 16, 2015. Subsequent annual renewal is possible on a fiscal year basis (July 1- June 30) for up to four years contingent upon performance, the needs of the center and university, and the availability of resources. The purpose of this position is to work with faculty, students, and other researchers at the Center for Population Dynamics (CePoD). By time of appointment, successful candidates must have a PhD or equivalent in sociology, economics, human development, public health, demography, or related field and have substantive and methodological training in research related to population migration in international settings. In addition to migration, substantive experience with another research area that is a focus of CePoD—population and environment, fertility, or family demography— is preferred. Responsibilities of this position include contributing to ongoing projects (design, data collection and analysis), preparing proposals for new research projects, writing collaborative manuscripts, and carrying out independent research. Deadline: March 25, 2015.

Assistant/Associate Professor of Sociology, Georgetown University. The Georgetown University Department of Sociology seeks an excellent teacher to fill a non-tenurable position beginning in Fall 2015. While not a tenure-track line, the position is for an Assistant Professor of Teaching, a 2-year post with potential for renewal. The Department offers an undergraduate major and minor in Sociology, and the teaching load for this position is 3-3 – but only two preps within a given semester. Some departmental service is also expected of the successful candidate. While specialization areas are open, we will favor applicants able to provide regular instruction in the following course topics: introductory; political sociology; social movements; immigration; culture; new technologies; or economic sociology. Deadline: March 29, 2015.

Postdoctoral Scholar\(s\), Center for the Economics of Human Development, University of Chicago. The Center for the Economics of Human Development (CEHD) at the University of Chicago is seeking motivated and creative postdoctoral scholars interested in working on diverse aspects of human development. Scholars with unique perspectives are encouraged, including those developing rigorous formal models of the life cycles of individuals and families, including models of family formation and dissolution, those making extensive and creative empirical explorations of the life cycle, and scholars conducting ethnographic studies of human development. The study of learning, the creation of capabilities, the formation and expression of identity, and studies of the role of mentors, teachers, peers, parents, and genes are within the scope of our mandate. Deadline March 31, 2015.

Service Fellowship in Health Statistics, Office of Analysis and Epidemiology, National Center for Health Statistics. The Service Fellow will primarily be responsible for all aspects of preparing and disseminating NCHS' flagship report, Health, United States, both in print and electronic form. Responsibilities focus on the planning and development of the varied analytic products contained in Health, United States. Duties include updating the approximate 120 report trend tables from over 35 different data systems; creating graphics and text for the report Chartbook that presents key health indicators for health risk factors, health status, health care utilization, and personal health care expenditures; and creating online data products for the Health, United States user community. The Service Fellow will also provide technical consultation and advice to data users and colleagues and prepare standard and specialized studies for NCHS reports and journal publications. Applicants must have successfully completed a graduate degree in social sciences, health sciences, statistics, public health, or a related field (e.g., demography, public policy, or epidemiology). Deadline: March 31, 2015.

Open Rank Professor of Economics, Purdue University. The Department of Economics invites applications for at least one tenure-track or tenured position. Candidates at all ranks (Assistant, Associate and Full Professor) will be considered; appointments will begin August, 2015. The Department is seeking applications from exceptional candidates in all fields; candidates in the areas of Industrial Organization, Health, Education, Labor and Public Economics are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates are expected to conduct policy-relevant research, to supervise Ph.D. dissertation research and to teach at the graduate and undergraduate levels. The positions require a Ph.D. in economics or closely related field. Deadline: March 31, 2015.

Postdoctoral Fellow, Center for Urban Innovation, Georgia Tech. The Center for Urban Innovation and the School of Public Policy at the Georgia Institute of Technology's campus in Atlanta are actively seeking applicants for one or more Postdoctoral Fellow positions. The Postdoctoral Fellow will conduct research with the Center for Urban Innovation (an interdisciplinary research center at Georgia Tech) and teach at the undergraduate and/or graduate levels in the School of Public Policy. This is a non-tenure track position of limited duration. We welcome applicants in the fields of economic and urban geography, urban sociology, urban economics, urban planning, urban policy, and cognate disciplines. Applicants should submit: 1) cover letter; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) a representative publication or working paper; 4) a sample syllabus; and 5) names and contact information of three academic references. Please email application materials to with the subject line: Post-Doc (Your Name). Deadline: April 10, 2015.

\(2\) Visiting Scholar Programs, Institute for Research on Poverty. Program 1: The Institute for Research on Poverty (IRP) invites applications from U.S.-based social science scholars from underrepresented racial and
