EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

U. S. Census Bureau Recruiting at the 2015 Population Association of America Annual Meetings \(San Diego, CA\).

The U.S. Census Bureau has full-time and summer internship opportunities for qualified U.S. citizens in the areas of geography, demography, sociology, economics, and related social sciences. We are looking for candidates at all levels of education. Training in demographic analysis, survey research, geographic information systems, and/or quantitative data analysis of large datasets is preferred. These openings offer the opportunity to work on one or more of the following topics: population distribution; population estimates and projections; housing; income; disability; health insurance coverage; education; and migration. Representatives will be recruiting during the Population Association of America (PAA) annual meeting in San Diego, CA. We will conduct 30 minute informational recruiting sessions during the conference (April 30 and May 1) from 9:00 am to 5:00 pm. Please email David Zaslow to sign up prior to the conference or visit the Census Bureau's exhibition booth during the conference.

Research Associate, U.S. Programs, Population Reference Bureau. The Population Reference Bureau seeks an individual to collect, analyze, and report data and research about U.S. demographic issues and collaborate with senior staff to design and conduct research on child, family, and elderly well-being. Collect demographic, socioeconomic, and social indicator data using a broad range of sources, including decennial Census, American Community Survey, Current Population Survey, National Survey of Children's Health, and Vital Statistics data. Ph.D. in sociology, demography, economics, public policy or related field. Open until filled.

Lecturer, Department of Sociology, University of Iowa. The Department of Sociology at the University of Iowa seeks applicants for appointment at the rank of Lecturer (full-time, non-tenure track) to teach introduction to sociology, social problems, and other specialty courses depending on the expertise of the faculty member hired. We would be particularly interested in candidates who could teach course on family, gender, organizations or economic sociology. The teaching load is three courses per semester. A PhD in Sociology is required. The position will begin in August 19, 2015. Open until filled.

Assistant or Associate Professor of Social Epidemiology, UNC, Chapel Hill. The Department of Epidemiology, Gillings School of Global Public Health, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, is recruiting for a full-time tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor. We are seeking outstanding individuals engaged in social epidemiology research, including, but not limited to, multi-level and life course approaches, with research in substantive areas such as, but not limited to, cancer, cardiovascular, genetics, infectious diseases, or reproductive outcomes. Open until filled.

Research Data Manager, Johns Hopkins University. Performance Monitoring and Accountability 2020 (PMA2020) is a five-year project funded by the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation that is designed to facilitate annual progress reporting in support of the goals and principles of FP2020. The project will support low-cost, rapid-turnaround household and facility surveys to routinely update national indicators on family planning and water and sanitation in 10 countries in Asia and Africa. PMA2020 is seeking a full-time Research Data Manager to support data management and analysis activities across all project countries and in Baltimore, with a particular focus on Francophone countries. The Research Data Manager will work with the lead Research Associate and the Project Director to assist in the oversight of an international data management team and will be the primary data management support for PMA2020 Francophone partners, including conducting international trainings on data management and analysis with project partners and affiliates. Open until filled.

Postdoctoral Fellowship, Keck School of Medicine, University of Southern California. The Keck School of Medicine of the University of Southern California seeks candidates for one- to three-year research fellowships. Fellows will have the opportunity to work with an interdisciplinary group of faculty who conduct research on the determinants, epidemiology, and intervention/prevention of behavioral influences on cancer risk: (a) tobacco, alcohol, and drug use; (b) obesity, diet, and physical activity; (c) sexually-transmitted infections related to cancer (e.g., HPV infection); or (d) cancer survivorship. We seek candidates with backgrounds and interests that compliment existing strengths in: (1) health disparities and social/environmental influences on health behavior; (2) psychological influences on health behavior, (3) methodology (e.g., longitudinal data analysis, ecological momentary assessment, mobile health, social network modeling), (4) developmental processes and youth health behavior; and (5) psychoneuroimmunology. Open until filled.

Assistant/Associate Professor of Sociology, Georgetown University. The Georgetown University Department of Sociology seeks an excellent teacher to fill a non-tenurable position beginning in Fall 2015. While not a tenure-track line, the position is for an Assistant Professor of Teaching, a 2-year post with potential for renewal. The Department offers an undergraduate major and minor in Sociology, and the teaching load for this position is 3-3 – but only two preps within a given semester. Some departmental service is also expected of the successful candidate. While specialization areas are open, we will favor applicants able to provide regular instruction in the following course topics: introductory; political sociology; social movements; immigration; culture; new technologies; or economic sociology. Deadline: March 29, 2015.

Postdoctoral Scholar\(s\), Center for the Economics of Human Development, University of Chicago. The Center for the Economics of Human Development (CEHD) at the University of Chicago is seeking motivated and creative postdoctoral scholars interested in working on diverse aspects of human development. Scholars with unique perspectives are encouraged, including those developing rigorous formal models of the life cycles of individuals and families, including models of family formation and dissolution, those making extensive and creative empirical explorations of the life cycle, and scholars conducting ethnographic studies of human development. The study of learning, the creation of capabilities, the formation and expression of identity, and studies of the role of mentors, teachers, peers, parents, and genes are within the scope of our mandate. Deadline March 31, 2015.

Service Fellowship in Health Statistics, Office of Analysis and Epidemiology, National Center for Health Statistics. The Service Fellow will primarily be responsible for all aspects of preparing and disseminating NCHS' flagship report, Health, United States, both in print and electronic form. Responsibilities focus on the planning and development of the varied analytic products contained in Health, United States. Duties include updating the approximate 120 report trend tables from over 35 different data systems; creating graphics and text for the report Chartbook that presents key health indicators for health risk factors, health status, health care utilization, and personal health care expenditures; and creating online data products for the Health, United States user community. The Service Fellow will also provide technical consultation and advice to data users and colleagues and prepare standard and specialized studies for NCHS reports and journal publications. Applicants must have successfully completed a graduate degree in social sciences, health sciences, statistics, public health, or a related field (e.g., demography, public policy, or epidemiology). Deadline: March 31, 2015.

Open Rank Professor of Economics, Purdue University. The Department of Economics invites applications for at least one tenure-track or tenured position. Candidates at all ranks (Assistant, Associate and Full Professor) will be considered; appointments will begin August, 2015. The Department is seeking applications from exceptional candidates in all fields; candidates in the areas of Industrial Organization, Health, Education, Labor and Public Economics are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates are expected to conduct policy-relevant research, to supervise Ph.D. dissertation research and to teach at the graduate and undergraduate levels. The positions require a Ph.D. in economics or closely related field. Deadline: March 31, 2015.

Associate, Ibis Reproductive Health. Ibis Reproductive Health is an international nonprofit organization with a mission to improve women's reproductive autonomy, choices, and health worldwide. We seek a thoughtful, entrepreneurial researcher who is committed to work on women's reproductive health, rights, and justice and is interested in building a body of research and leadership in the field, particularly in the areas of US abortion restrictions and health inequities. Competitive candidates for this position will be experienced researchers with bold ideas for projects that will have an impact on women's lives and health and will also be committed to participating in staff and organizational development at Ibis. PhD or Master's plus equivalent experience in demography, public health, anthropology, or sociology. Application deadline: April 10, 2015.

Postdoctoral Fellow, Center for Urban Innovation, Georgia Tech. The Center for Urban Innovation and the School of Public Policy at the Georgia Institute of Technology's campus in Atlanta are actively seeking applicants for one or more Postdoctoral Fellow positions. The Postdoctoral Fellow will conduct research with the Center for Urban Innovation (an interdisciplinary research center at Georgia Tech) and teach at the undergraduate and/or graduate levels in the School of Public Policy. This is a non-tenure track position of limited duration. We welcome applicants in the fields of economic and urban geography, urban sociology, urban economics, urban planning, urban policy, and cognate disciplines. Applicants should submit: 1) cover letter; 2) curriculum vitae; 3) a representative publication or working paper; 4) a sample syllabus; and 5) names and contact information of three academic references. Please email application materials to with the subject line: Post-Doc (Your Name). Deadline: April 10, 2015.

Postdoctoral Fellowship, Center on Poverty & Social Policy, Columbia University. The Center on Poverty and Social Policy, at the Columbia School of Social Work, is seeking a postdoctoral research scholar with a PhD in economics, public policy, social work, sociology or a related discipline for a project on national and state trends in poverty. The postdoc will work with faculty and researchers to conduct new analyses of national and state trends in poverty using an improved measure of poverty based on the supplemental poverty measure (SPM) recently developed by the United States Census Bureau and the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The project will consider key sub-groups as well as the overall population, and will also gather and take into account data on state-level policies and cost-of-living. The postdoctoral fellowship is for one year, with the option to renew for a second year contingent on performance and funding. Deadline: April 30, 2015.

Director of Population Research Institute, Penn State University. The Office of the Vice President for Research and the Social Science Research Institute at The Pennsylvania State University, University Park campus, invites applications for the Director of the Population Research Institute (PRI) (Job #55608). PRI's major goal is to advance the scientific understanding of human population dynamics. The PRI director will hold a tenured appointment at the full level in the most relevant academic department, specifically Sociology, Human Development and Family Studies, Anthropology, Economics, Health Policy & Administration, and/or Agricultural
