FUNDING OPPORTUNITIES AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

Fall 2014: ISS Small Grant Program. The ISS small grant program is designed to assist Cornell’s tenure-track and tenured faculty working in the social sciences. Application deadline: September 9, 2014.

Sloan Research Fellowships. The Alfred P. Sloan Foundation will award $50,000 fellowships to each of 126 early-career scientists for use in their research. The funds may be used over a two-year period for any activity supportive of the fellow’s research, including equipment, technical assistance, professional travel, or trainee support. Application deadline: September 15, 2014.

Call for Pre-proposals: 2015-2018 ISS Theme Projects. Pre-proposals due: February 2, 2015. Starting in 2015, the ISS will be reconfiguring the theme project model that was used from 2004-2014. ISS will fund two 5-person projects rather than one 10-person project. Pre-proposals are not due until February 2, 2015, but faculty are encouraged to discuss their project ideas with Kim Weeden, the Director of ISS, during Spring and Summer of 2014 in advance of her sabbatical leave during Fall 2014. Please contact Anneliese Truame to make an appointment.

NICHD/NIH, Population Dynamics Branch \(PDB\). The PDB (formerly the Demographic and Behavioral Sciences Branch) supports research and research training in demography, reproductive health, and population health. Ongoing FOAs.

NIA/NIH, Division of Behavioral and Social Research \(BSR\). The Division of Behavioral and Social Research (BSR) supports social, behavioral, and economic research and research training on the processes of aging at both the individual and societal level. Ongoing FOAs.

EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

Senior Research Associate - Domestic, The Guttmacher Institute. A Senior Research Associate (SRA) is responsible for leading or playing a major role in one or more research projects, including managing, planning and carrying out data collection, data analysis and manuscript writing. SRAs also serve as project managers and supervise midlevel and junior staff as they assist in the implementation of research projects. We are currently seeking an individual with a focus on and experience with SRHR in the United States or other developed countries. Doctoral degree in social sciences, reproductive health or closely related field. Open until filled.

Senior Research Associate - International, The Guttmacher Institute. A Senior Research Associate (SRA) is responsible for leading or playing a major role in one or more research projects, including managing, planning and carrying out data collection, data analysis and manuscript writing. SRAs also serve as project managers and supervise midlevel and junior staff as they assist in the implementation of research projects. We are currently seeking an individual with a focus on and experience in developing-country work. Doctoral degree in social sciences, reproductive health or closely related field. Open until filled.

CORNELL POPULATION CENTER

Associate/Full Research Professor, University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research. The Survey Research Center (SRC) within the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research (ISR) is seeking an economist at the rank of Associate or Full Research Professor to join the leadership team of The Panel Study of Income Dynamics (PSID). The ideal candidate would be a scientific leader in the field of economics, or closely-related social or policy science discipline, with a history of interdisciplinary collaborations, a demonstrated focus analyzing large-scale survey data, and a successful record of entrepreneurial activity to support innovative data collection and research. Prior experience managing survey design, fieldwork, web-based collection, or other aspects of data production and dissemination are highly desirable. Open until filled.

Computational Social Science Postdoctoral Fellow, University of Chicago. We seek outstanding candidates for NSF-funded post-doctoral positions in computational social science at the University of Chicago. Working under the supervision of James Evans, post-docs will explore cutting-edge problems in social science methodology: the creation and fielding of interactive, intelligent surveys; the modeling of social and cultural influence; and automated methods for creating and decomposing knowledge networks. Positions will be associated with the Sociology Department and Knowledge Lab in the Computation Institute at the University of Chicago. Positions are for 2-3 years, contingent on annual reappointment. Minimum qualifications for this position are a PhD or expected PhD in social science (e.g., sociology, economics, political science) or a related field. Open until filled.

Postdoctoral Fellowship, Stanford Center on Poverty and Inequality. The Stanford Center on Poverty and Inequality, one of three national poverty centers, is seeking a postdoctoral scholar for a one-year term beginning either in January 2015 or August 2015 (with an option for renewal for a second year). The scholar will collaborate with PIs David B. Grusky and Michael Macy on a National Science Foundation project examining whether class barriers to interaction are less prominent in social media than in face-to-face networks. The analyses will draw on profile data, analysis of message content, and local housing valuations for geo-tagged Twitter users. The research may involve a combination of skills in computational social science, including knowledge of Python, API crawls, cloud computing (e.g., Amazon Web Services), large-scale data management, MapReduce, Hadoop, as well as data and network analysis. Open until filled.

Postdoctoral Fellowship in Human Capital Interventions in Development, UC Irvine. The School of Education at the University of California, Irvine is hiring two postdoctoral fellows for two years beginning with the 2015-16 academic year. Preferred start date is July 1, 2015. The fellowship includes a salary of $50,000 per year, plus health insurance, and funding for conference travel, professional development, and a computer fund. Postdoctoral fellows will join an interdisciplinary research team housed in the School of Education and led by faculty with appointments in the UCI School of Education and Department of Economics and Vanderbilt's Department of Economics. The heart of the research opportunities provided to fellows is a five-year NICHD-funded program project (P01) that was awarded to the University of California, Irvine. Qualifications: Applicants from a variety of disciplines (e.g., education, sociology, developmental psychology, cognitive psychology, economics and public policy) are encouraged to apply. Successful applicants must have a good command of quantitative methods used in the behavioral and social sciences. Open until filled.

Postdoctoral Fellow, African Population and Health Research Center \(APHRC\). The African Population and Health Research Center (APHRC) is an international non-profit, non-governmental organization committed to conducting high quality and policy relevant research on population, health, education, and development issues facing sub-Saharan Africa. APHRC seeks to fill the following vacancy post-doctoral fellow within its research division. The fellowship should be taken up within two years of completion of doctoral degree. The successful candidate will have a PhD in urban studies, urban health, or related fields; experience and strong interest in the areas of urbanization, migration, poverty measurement; and experience and high levels of familiarity with a diverse set of health and social science data sets. Open until filled.

CORNELL POPULATION CENTER

Junior Professor of Social Science, University of Mannheim. The School of Social Sciences at the University of Mannheim invites applications for a Junior Professor in Sociology of Education and Family (W1) to be filled as soon as possible. We seek a scholar with an innovative research agenda and internationally visible publications in the field of sociology of family and/or education. Contributions to the research activities at the Mannheim Centre for European Social Research (MZES) are expected. We explicitly welcome participation in the social science doctoral program (taught in English) of the Graduate School of Economic and Social Sciences (GESS). Candidates are required to have successfully completed their graduate studies and received an excellent doctoral degree in the social sciences. Application deadline: August 27, 2014.

Director of Research, African Population and Health Research Center \(APHRC\). The Director of Research will be primarily responsible for overseeing the Center's Research Division. The position is based in Nairobi and reports to the Executive Director of APHRC. The Director of Research will provide overall direction and guidance to the Center's various research programs in health, education, population, urbanization, aging and development, ensuring synergies across these programs. The successful candidate will have 10+ years of post-doctoral experience in an academic or research institution and a PhD in a field relevant to APHRC's research programs with good understanding of the broad issues across other research program areas. Application deadline: August 31, 2014.

Post-Doctoral Researcher, Department of Sociology, Tilburg University \(Netherlands\). The post-doctoral research forms part of the research project HOWCOME: Changing Housing Regimes and Trends in Social and Economic Inequality, which is financed by the European Research Council (ERC). The research project aims to study the interplay between two major social trends of the post-war period: the upward trend in economic inequality and long-term changes in housing regimes. Application deadline: September 1, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Sociology, Williams College. The Department of Anthropology & Sociology invites applications for the position as a regular (tenure-track) assistant professor in sociology beginning July 1, 2015. The department has a unique interdisciplinary focus that emphasizes innovative empirically grounded qualitative work, including ethnography, historical comparative sociology, visual methods and other qualitative traditions. The department is particularly interested in candidates who do work in the subfields of migration, new media, science and technology, medical sociology, religion, work, or social movements, and/or whose research has a regional focus on Africa or South Asia. Application deadline: September 1, 2014.

Assistant Specialist in Cooperative Extension in Public Policy, Department of Human Ecology, University of California, Davis. The Specialist will provide leadership, facilitate teamwork, develop collaborative relationships with UC Cooperative Extension (UCCE) academic colleagues, and ensure appropriate external input into the planning of research and educational programs by the Agricultural Experiment Station (AES) and UCCE. This position will be filled by a social scientist with training in public policy and experience with translational research, the process by which research findings are acquired, interpreted, and used by policy makers and practitioners, and by which the context-specific knowledge of practitioners and policy makers can inform more relevant research. The applicant should have a doctoral degree in public policy, political science, public administration, sociology, planning, geography, education, or related fields, along with expertise and experience in linking science with policy processes to inform social change. Application deadline: September 2, 2014.

\(2\) Assistant Professor of Comparative Human Development, University of Chicago. The Department of Comparative Human Development at the University of Chicago is an interdisciplinary department whose faculty includes anthropologists, biologists, linguists, psychologists, sociologists and methodologists whose methods and theories cross individual social science disciplines. The department announces two openings for tenure track assistant professors (#02220); we hope to make at least one appointment in sociology. Special attention will be paid to applicants whose research contributes to social scientific understandings of the life course, immigration, bilingualism, medicine and health, and the relationship between people and non-human animals. Application deadline: September 8, 2014.

\(2\) Assistant Professor of Sociology, UMass Amherst. University of Massachusetts-Amherst. The Department of Sociology invites applications for two tenure-track position beginning Fall 2015 at the Assistant/Advanced Assistant Professor level. One position is Open with strong preference for a candidate whose research and teaching address Law, Crime, and Incarceration. The second position is Open although some preference may be given to candidates whose research and teaching address any of the following areas: (1) Class Inequality, (2) Quantitative Methods/Demography, (3) Textual Analysis using the Internet, and (4) Culture and Identity. Application deadline: September 12, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Sociology, Boston College. The Department of Sociology at Boston College invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position to begin in Fall 2015. We are seeking to hire a quantitative scholar at the Assistant Professor level whose research agenda fits into the social justice theme of our Ph.D. program. We are particularly interested in applicants who work in the areas of environment, criminology, and/or medical sociology, but will consider the applications of quantitative scholars who work in other areas. Application deadline: September 12, 2014.

Postdoctoral Researcher in Mathematical Demography and Ecology, Institute for Biodiversity and Ecosystem Dynamics. A postdoctoral position is available with Prof. Hal Caswell, in the Theoretical Ecology Research Group within the Institute for Biodiversity and Ecosystem Dynamics (IBED) at the University of Amsterdam. This postdoctoral position is part of the research program Individual Stochasticity and Population Heterogeneity in Plant and Animal Populations, which is funded by an ERC Advanced Grant. The overall goal of this research program is to develop a comprehensive theory for incorporating stochastic variation and individual heterogeneity into demographic models, and for analyzing their consequences for population growth, structure, and persistence. This postdoctoral project focuses on developing matrix models for cohorts and populations, and applying them to demographic and biodemographic data on a variety of taxa, including humans. Specific questions involve frailty and other sources of heterogeneity; mortality, longevity, and disparity; multistate models; models for disease dynamics and health; population projections; and the effects of stochastic environments. Application deadline: September 15, 2014.

Open Rank Position in Social Demography, Brown University. The Brown University Department of Sociology seeks applications for an open-rank tenure-track appointment, to begin July 1, 2015, with a specialization in the sociology of population. Within this focus, we particularly seek candidates who conceive their work broadly, whose work contributes toward the larger discipline of sociology, and who can engage creatively with other areas of strength in the Department, such as development, environment, health and medicine, organizational studies, urban studies, demography and spatial analysis. Application deadline: September 15, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Sociology, University of Pittsburgh. The Sociology Department at the University of Pittsburgh seeks to fill a position for a sociologist (job #0006503) with strong training in quantitative methods. The successful candidate must be able to teach graduate level statistics and must employ quantitative methods in research. Substantive areas are open, but candidates who complement our departmental strengths in social movements, politics, and culture are preferred. The appointment will be tenure-track at the Assistant Professor level and will begin in the fall of 2015, pending budgetary approval. The position will require demonstrable excellence and promise in research and teaching. Application deadline: September 15, 2014.

Advanced Assistant Professor /Associate Professor, Maxwell School of Citizenship & Public Affairs, Syracuse University. The Department of Sociology in the Maxwell School of Citizenship & Public Affairs invites applications for an Advanced Assistant Professor or tenured Associate Professor in the Sociology Department and faculty associate in the Syracuse University Aging Studies Institute. Candidates should have an active program of research in the sociology of aging and the life course. Application deadline: September 15, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Sociology, University of British Columbia. The Department of Sociology in the Faculty of Arts at the University of British Columbia (Vancouver) invites applications for a tenure-stream faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning July 1, 2015. The substantive areas of specialization and methodological approaches are open. Application deadline: September 15, 2014.

Assistant or Associate Professor of Urban Sociology, San Diego State University. The San Diego State University Department of Sociology is seeking applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Urban Sociology trained in demography and spatial analytical techniques to begin the fall semester of 2015. A Ph.D. in Sociology is required, as is evidence of research. The successful candidate will teach both undergraduate and graduate courses in the areas of urban sociology, social stratification and quantitative methods. Exceptional candidates may be considered for the rank of Associate Professor. Application deadline: September 30, 2014.

Open Rank Professor of Sociology, National University of Singapore. Successful candidates must have: 1) Ph.D. in Sociology or Anthropology from an internationally acclaimed institution at the time of appointment; 2) Fields of specialization are open (preferably in Family Demography for Professor & Associate Professor position; 3) Successful candidate for the Family Demography position will be affiliated with the new Center for Family and Population Research in NUS); 4) A strong track record and promising trajectory in research and publication, preferably with strong interest in Asian societies; and 5) Excellent communication skills and dedication to academic teaching excellence and collegiality. Application deadline: September 30, 2014.

Director, Office of Behavioral and Social Sciences Research \(OBSSR\), National Institutes of Health \(NIH\). The National Institutes of Health (NIH) is seeking exceptional candidates for the challenging position of Director, Office of Behavioral and Social Sciences Research (OBSSR). The Director also functions as the NIH Associate Director for Behavioral and Social Sciences Research. The Director provides advice and staff support to the NIH Director and the Director, DPCPSI, serves as the NIH focal point for establishing agency-wide policies and goals in behavioral and social sciences research, and coordinates the activities undertaken in the performance of this research. This is a dual reporting position. As the Associate Director for Behavioral and Social Sciences Research, the position reports to the Director, NIH, and as the Director, OBSSR, the position reports to the Director, DPCPSI, and has trans-NIH responsibilities. Candidates must have an established and national or internationally recognized record in the behavioral and social sciences research. Candidates must possess a Ph.D., M.D., or comparable doctorate degree in the biomedical or behavioral sciences plus senior-level scientific experience and knowledge of research programs in one or more scientific areas related to behavioral and social sciences research. Application deadline: October 1, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Medical Sociology and/or Population Health, UC Riverside. The Department of Sociology invites applications for an Assistant Professor position in medical sociology and/or population health beginning July 1, 2015. We seek a scholar with an emphasis in disparities of health and/or health care linked to gender, race, class, ethnicity and/or immigrant status, as well as candidates who can add to existing strengths within the Department of Sociology, while also offering the potential for collaboration with UCR's new School of Medicine. Competitive candidates will demonstrate a strong record of publication, a commitment to extramural funding, and teaching excellence. Application deadline: October 1, 2014.

Assistant or Associate Professor of Environmental Sociology, Cornell University. The Department of Development Sociology in the College of Agriculture and Life Sciences at Cornell University is seeking applicants for a tenure track position in environmental sociology and spatial analysis. Qualified applicants must have a demonstrated record of scholarship focusing on the societal and spatial dimensions of contemporary environmental change. Expertise in areas such as the interrelationships between development and the environment; sociological examinations of climate change; societal impact on ecosystems, and changing patterns of land use, is particularly welcome. Application deadline: October 1, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Sociology, Bowdoin College. The Department of Sociology and Anthropology at Bowdoin College seeks applications for a tenure-track position at the level of Assistant Professor in Sociology beginning fall 2015. The successful candidate will demonstrate a promise of successful scholarly engagement and a strong commitment to teaching. Particular attention will be given to candidates whose research focuses on either Urban Sociology or Sociology of Culture. Application deadline: October 1, 2014.

\(2\) Tenure-Track Professor of Sociology, UCLA. The UCLA Department of Sociology invites applications for two positions, one tenure-track at the assistant professor level and the other open rank (tenure-track or tenured), to begin fall 2015. We welcome applications from scholars in all substantive areas of Sociology whose experience in research, teaching, and community/collegial service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to excellence and diversity. Candidates are expected to hold a doctorate degree in Sociology or a related field by the date of hire, July 1 2015. Application deadline: October 1, 2015.

\(2\) Assistant Professor of Sociology, University of Colorado Denver. The Department of Sociology invites applications for two tenure-track Assistant Professors (Job #F01443) to begin spring or fall 2015. The department is especially interested in applicants with a strong record of scholarship and teaching in health, crime, and/or inequality. Applicants must have a demonstrated record of excellence in scholarship that focuses on the social and cultural dimensions of psychological or physical health and human functioning at the individual or population level. Specific area of expertise is open, but we are particularly interested in scholars who consider the role of psychosocial, biological, or cultural factors, or take a developmental or lifespan perspective in their work. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2014, and the final deadline for application submission is November 1, 2014.

Development Economist, American Institutes for Research \(AIR\). The American Institutes for Research (AIR) has opportunities available in Washington, D.C. for a Development Economist to work in the International Development, Evaluation, and Research program (IDER). AIR's international work improves the quality of life in developing countries by using rigorous research and evaluation to enhance education and social development. IDER conducts impact evaluations on a wide range of topics including cash transfer programs, early childhood nutrition programs, education interventions, health product distribution programs, and agricultural interventions. We partner with locally based researchers to provide context relevant policy analysis and to help build the research capacity in developing countries. Our work contributes to policy and financial decisions at the national and international level in countries around the world. A Ph.D. in economics, public policy, or related social science field, with expertise in econometrics or applied statistics. Application deadline: January 31, 2015.

CPC STUDENT OPPORTUNITIES

Demography Minor. The CPC offers a campus-wide minor in Demography that is open to PhD students in all social science graduate fields. Admission to the Demography minor requires that at least one member of the student's special committee is a CPC affiliate. Students interested in signing up for the Demography minor should contact Lindy Williams or Geysa Smiljanic.

DSOC/PAM 6720 - Demography Proseminar \(Fall 2014\). W, 10:10AM - 01:10PM, ASA 109. One of the core courses required of graduate students enrolled in the Demography minor. The course generally is taken by second-year students after they have completed one graduate-level course in demographic methods and one substantive demography course. The course's objective is to introduce graduate students to demography's substantive and methodological breadth from various disciplinary perspectives. The course is team taught by affiliated faculty of the Cornell Population Center.

CPC Graduate Student Reading Group. The Demography/Population reading group will meet in Fall 2014. For each meeting, a participant will serve as the leader, providing 2 or 3 articles and/or chapters to read related to their topic of interest. This group will facilitate student exposure to a breadth of literature across all of population studies and also develop some cross-disciplinary links. If you are interested in participating, please just send your name, department, and general area of interest/specialty to Christopher Gronberg.
