FUNDING OPPORTUNITIES AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

Fall 2014: ISS Small Grant Program. The ISS small grant program is designed to assist Cornell’s tenure-track and tenured faculty working in the social sciences. Application deadline: September 9, 2014.

Sloan Research Fellowships. The Alfred P. Sloan Foundation will award $50,000 fellowships to each of 126 early-career scientists for use in their research. The funds may be used over a two-year period for any activity supportive of the fellow’s research, including equipment, technical assistance, professional travel, or trainee support. Application deadline: September 15, 2014.

Call for Pre-proposals: 2015-2018 ISS Theme Projects. Pre-proposals due: February 2, 2015.

NICHD/NIH, Population Dynamics Branch \(PDB\). The PDB (formerly the Demographic and Behavioral Sciences Branch) supports research and research training in demography, reproductive health, and population health. Ongoing FOAs.

NIA/NIH, Division of Behavioral and Social Research \(BSR\). The Division of Behavioral and Social Research (BSR) supports social, behavioral, and economic research and research training on the processes of aging at both the individual and societal level. Ongoing FOAs.

EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

Demographer, Claims Conference. The Demographer will spearhead the Claims Conference’s new Demography Unit and be responsible for conducting demographic research and reporting on Nazi victims throughout the world. S/he will independently promote and support research in demographic issues related to Holocaust survivors toward the goal of helping to provide for their social, physical, psychological, economic, and health needs. In particular, the candidate will analyze the population distribution, life expectancy, and conditions of Nazi victims globally. A PhD in sociology, demography, public policy, statistics, applied psychology, or related field is required. Open until filled.

Senior Research Associate - Domestic, The Guttmacher Institute. A Senior Research Associate (SRA) is responsible for leading or playing a major role in one or more research projects, including managing, planning and carrying out data collection, data analysis and manuscript writing. SRAs also serve as project managers and supervise midlevel and junior staff as they assist in the implementation of research projects. We are currently seeking an individual with a focus on and experience with SRHR in the United States or other developed countries. Doctoral degree in social sciences, reproductive health or closely related field. Open until filled.

Senior Research Associate - International, The Guttmacher Institute. A Senior Research Associate (SRA) is responsible for leading or playing a major role in one or more research projects, including managing, planning and carrying out data collection, data analysis and manuscript writing. SRAs also serve as project managers and supervise midlevel and junior staff as they assist in the implementation of research projects. We are currently seeking an individual with a focus on and experience in developing-country work. Doctoral degree in social sciences, reproductive health or closely related field. Open until filled.

Associate/Full Research Professor, University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research. The Survey Research Center (SRC) within the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research (ISR) is seeking an economist at the rank of Associate or Full Research Professor to join the leadership team of The Panel Study of Income Dynamics (PSID). The ideal candidate would be a scientific leader in the field of economics, or closely-related social or policy science discipline, with a history of interdisciplinary collaborations, a demonstrated focus analyzing large-scale survey data, and a successful record of entrepreneurial activity to support innovative data collection and research. Prior experience managing survey design, fieldwork, web-based collection, or other aspects of data production and dissemination are highly desirable. Open until filled.

Computational Social Science Postdoctoral Fellow, University of Chicago. We seek outstanding candidates for NSF-funded post-doctoral positions in computational social science at the University of Chicago. Working under the supervision of James Evans, post-docs will explore cutting-edge problems in social science methodology: the creation and fielding of interactive, intelligent surveys; the modeling of social and cultural influence; and automated methods for creating and decomposing knowledge networks. Positions will be associated with the Sociology Department and Knowledge Lab in the Computation Institute at the University of Chicago. Positions are for 2-3 years, contingent on annual reappointment. Minimum qualifications for this position are a PhD or expected PhD in social science (e.g., sociology, economics, political science) or a related field. Open until filled.

Postdoctoral Fellowship, Stanford Center on Poverty and Inequality. The Stanford Center on Poverty and Inequality, one of three national poverty centers, is seeking a postdoctoral scholar for a one-year term beginning either in January 2015 or August 2015 (with an option for renewal for a second year). The scholar will collaborate with PIs David B. Grusky and Michael Macy on a National Science Foundation project examining whether class barriers to interaction are less prominent in social media than in face-to-face networks. The analyses will draw on profile data, analysis of message content, and local housing valuations for geo-tagged Twitter users. The research may involve a combination of skills in computational social science, including knowledge of Python, API crawls, cloud computing (e.g., Amazon Web Services), large-scale data management, MapReduce, Hadoop, as well as data and network analysis. Open until filled.

Postdoctoral Fellowship in Human Capital Interventions in Development, UC Irvine. The School of Education at the University of California, Irvine is hiring two postdoctoral fellows for two years beginning with the 2015-16 academic year. Preferred start date is July 1, 2015. Postdoctoral fellows will join an interdisciplinary research team housed in the School of Education and led by faculty with appointments in the UCI School of Education and Department of Economics and Vanderbilt's Department of Economics. The heart of the research opportunities provided to fellows is a five-year NICHD-funded program project (P01) that was awarded to the University of California, Irvine. Qualifications: Applicants from a variety of disciplines (e.g., education, sociology, developmental psychology, cognitive psychology, economics and public policy) are encouraged to apply. Successful applicants must have a good command of quantitative methods used in the behavioral and social sciences. Open until filled.

Postdoctoral Fellow, African Population and Health Research Center \(APHRC\). The African Population and Health Research Center (APHRC) is an international non-profit, non-governmental organization committed to conducting high quality and policy relevant research on population, health, education, and development issues facing sub-Saharan Africa. APHRC seeks to fill the following vacancy post-doctoral fellow within its research division. The fellowship should be taken up within two years of completion of doctoral degree. The successful candidate will have a PhD in urban studies, urban health, or related fields; experience and strong interest in the areas of urbanization, migration, poverty measurement; and experience and high levels of familiarity with a diverse set of health and social science data sets. Open until filled.

\(2\) Assistant Professor of Comparative Human Development, University of Chicago. The Department of Comparative Human Development at the University of Chicago is an interdisciplinary department whose faculty includes anthropologists, biologists, linguists, psychologists, sociologists and methodologists whose methods and theories cross individual social science disciplines. The department announces two openings for tenure track assistant professors (#02220); we hope to make at least one appointment in sociology. Special attention will be paid to applicants whose research contributes to social scientific understandings of the life course, immigration, bilingualism, medicine and health, and the relationship between people and non-human animals. Application deadline: September 8, 2014.

\(2\) Assistant Professor of Sociology, UMass Amherst. University of Massachusetts-Amherst. The Department of Sociology invites applications for two tenure-track position beginning Fall 2015 at the Assistant/Advanced Assistant Professor level. One position is Open with strong preference for a candidate whose research and teaching address Law, Crime, and Incarceration. The second position is Open although some preference may be given to candidates whose research and teaching address any of the following areas: (1) Class Inequality, (2) Quantitative Methods/Demography, (3) Textual Analysis using the Internet, and (4) Culture and Identity. Application deadline: September 12, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Sociology, Boston College. The Department of Sociology at Boston College invites applications for a tenure-track faculty position to begin in Fall 2015. We are seeking to hire a quantitative scholar at the Assistant Professor level whose research agenda fits into the social justice theme of our Ph.D. program. We are particularly interested in applicants who work in the areas of environment, criminology, and/or medical sociology, but will consider the applications of quantitative scholars who work in other areas. Application deadline: September 12, 2014.

Open Rank Professor of Public Policy, Gerald R. Ford School of Public Policy, University of Michigan. The University of Michigan's Gerald R. Ford School of Public Policy invites applications from sociologists for one or more tenure-track or tenured positions, especially assistant professor rank. We seek candidates who have demonstrated exceptional promise in research and teaching. Areas of specialization are open, with special opportunities for scholars of sustainability issues, and socioeconomic factors in the well-being of children and families. Scholars from all methodological traditions will be considered. Candidates should combine relevant substantive expertise with strong interests in public policy. Application deadline: September 15, 2014.

Postdoctoral Researcher in Mathematical Demography and Ecology, Institute for Biodiversity and Ecosystem Dynamics. A postdoctoral position is available with Prof. Hal Caswell, in the Theoretical Ecology Research Group within the Institute for Biodiversity and Ecosystem Dynamics (IBED) at the University of Amsterdam. This postdoctoral position is part of the research program Individual Stochasticity and Population Heterogeneity in Plant and Animal Populations, which is funded by an ERC Advanced Grant. The overall goal of this research program is to develop a comprehensive theory for incorporating stochastic variation and individual heterogeneity into demographic models, and for analyzing their consequences for population growth, structure, and persistence. This postdoctoral project focuses on developing matrix models for cohorts and populations, and applying them to demographic and biodemographic data on a variety of taxa, including humans. Specific questions involve frailty and other sources of heterogeneity; mortality, longevity, and disparity; multistate models; models for disease dynamics and health; population projections; and the effects of stochastic environments. Application deadline: September 15, 2014.

CORNELL POPULATION CENTER

Open Rank Position in Social Demography, Brown University. The Brown University Department of Sociology seeks applications for an open-rank tenure-track appointment, to begin July 1, 2015, with a specialization in the sociology of population. Within this focus, we particularly seek candidates who conceive their work broadly, whose work contributes toward the larger discipline of sociology, and who can engage creatively with other areas of strength in the Department, such as development, environment, health and medicine, organizational studies, urban studies, demography and spatial analysis. Application deadline: September 15, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Sociology, University of Pittsburgh. The Sociology Department at the University of Pittsburgh seeks to fill a position for a sociologist (job #0006503) with strong training in quantitative methods. The successful candidate must be able to teach graduate level statistics and must employ quantitative methods in research. Substantive areas are open, but candidates who complement our departmental strengths in social movements, politics, and culture are preferred. The appointment will be tenure-track at the Assistant Professor level and will begin in the fall of 2015, pending budgetary approval. The position will require demonstrable excellence and promise in research and teaching. Application deadline: September 15, 2014.

Advanced Assistant Professor /Associate Professor, Maxwell School of Citizenship & Public Affairs, Syracuse University. The Department of Sociology in the Maxwell School of Citizenship & Public Affairs invites applications for an Advanced Assistant Professor or tenured Associate Professor in the Sociology Department and faculty associate in the Syracuse University Aging Studies Institute. Candidates should have an active program of research in the sociology of aging and the life course. Application deadline: September 15, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Sociology, University of British Columbia. The Department of Sociology in the Faculty of Arts at the University of British Columbia (Vancouver) invites applications for a tenure-stream faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning July 1, 2015. The substantive areas of specialization and methodological approaches are open. Application deadline: September 15, 2014.

\(2\) Research Officers, British Cohort Study 1970 \(BCS70\) and 1958 National Child Development Study \(NCDS\). The Centre for Longitudinal Studies (CLS) is seeking to appoint two Research Officers to undertake research related to the British Cohort Study 1970 (BCS70) and 1958 National Child Development Study (NCDS). The ideal candidates will have a strong academic record, demonstrated by a PhD or equivalent experience in a quantitative social science discipline, such as economics, sociology, social policy, psychology, or demography. Candidates with expertise in health-related issues in later life, and with a background in epidemiology or other health-related discipline are also welcomed. Application deadline: September 26, 2014.

Assistant or Associate Professor of Urban Sociology, San Diego State University. The San Diego State University Department of Sociology is seeking applications for a tenure-track position at the rank of Assistant Professor in Urban Sociology trained in demography and spatial analytical techniques to begin the fall semester of 2015. A Ph.D. in Sociology is required, as is evidence of research. The successful candidate will teach both undergraduate and graduate courses in the areas of urban sociology, social stratification and quantitative methods. Exceptional candidates may be considered for the rank of Associate Professor. Application deadline: September 30, 2014.

Open Rank Professor of Sociology, National University of Singapore. Successful candidates must have: 1) Ph.D. in Sociology or Anthropology from an internationally acclaimed institution at the time of appointment; 2) Fields of specialization are open (preferably in Family Demography for Professor & Associate Professor position; 3) Successful candidate for the Family Demography position will be affiliated with the new Center for Family and Population Research in NUS); 4) A strong track record and promising trajectory in research and publication, preferably with strong interest in Asian societies; and 5) Excellent communication skills and dedication to academic teaching excellence and collegiality. Application deadline: September 30, 2014.

CORNELL POPULATION CENTER

Assistant Professor of Sociology, Princeton University. The Department of Sociology expects to fill a faculty position at the assistant professor level to begin in September 2015. We invite applications from scholars who are making contributions to some area of quantitative methodology, broadly defined, and whose work also contributes materially to one or more substantive fields. Application deadline: October 1, 2014.

Assistant/Associate/Full Professor of Sociology \(Demography\), Penn State University. The Department of Sociology and Criminology, University Park campus, invites applications for an open-rank, tenure-line position in the general area of demography to begin August, 2015. Candidates should have a strong publication record and a commitment to securing external funding and teaching and mentoring students. Junior candidates must have completed the Ph.D. by the time of appointment. Application deadline: October 1, 2014.

Open Rank Professor of Population & Health, University of Utah. The Department of Sociology at the University of Utah invites applications for an open-rank tenured or tenure-track position to begin on July 1, 2015. We are seeking a sociologist who will contribute to the Department specialty in Population and Health. Candidates should have a PhD in Sociology by summer 2015 at the latest. All research areas within a general population and health framework will be considered. Open Rank Professor of Social and Cultural Dimensions of Health, UCLA. UCLA's Department of Psychiatry and Biobehavioral Sciences and the Semel Institute for Neuroscience and Human Behavior (an interdisciplinary research and education institute devoted to the understanding of complex human behavior), in collaboration with the UCLA Division of Social Sciences, are seeking applications for a full-time tenure-equivalent faculty position at the Assistant, Associate or Full Professor rank; level to be commensurate with background and experience. Applicants must have a demonstrated record of excellence in scholarship that focuses on the social and cultural dimensions of psychological or physical health and human functioning at the individual or population level. Specific area of expertise is open, but we are particularly interested in scholars who consider the role of psychosocial, biological, or cultural factors, or take a developmental or lifespan perspective in their work. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2014, and the final deadline for application submission is November 1, 2014.

National Poverty Fellows Program. The National Poverty Fellows Program offers talented postdoctoral researchers an opportunity to participate in a federal government-university partnership. The goal of the program is both to build the capacity of researchers to conduct high-quality policy-relevant research on poverty and inequality in the United States and to contribute to the effective use of research and scientific knowledge in the formation of public policy. The fellowship is open to all postdoctoral scholars who are within six years of their degree. The fellowship will last for between one and two years and up to three fellows will be selected in this recruitment. Application deadline: November 21, 2014.

Associate/Full Professor of Urban Sociology, Temple University. The Department of Sociology at Temple University seeks to hire a tenured Associate or Full Professor in the field of urban sociology for Fall 2015. We seek a scholar who studies cities and the role of space in people's lives. We want to hire an urban sociologist who is grounded in contemporary urban theoretical issues and debates, skilled in designing empirical studies of cities and with interest in and/or experience with conducting funded research. This faculty member is expected to teach undergraduate and graduate survey courses on urban sociology as well as specialized and advanced courses in their interest area(s). Application deadline: November 30, 2014.

Development Economist, American Institutes for Research \(AIR\). The American Institutes for Research (AIR) has opportunities available in Washington, D.C. for a Development Economist to work in the International Development, Evaluation, and Research program (IDER). AIR's international work improves the quality of life in developing countries by using rigorous research and evaluation to enhance education and social development. IDER conducts impact evaluations on a wide range of topics including cash transfer programs, early childhood nutrition programs, education interventions, health product distribution programs, and agricultural interventions. We partner with locally based researchers to provide context relevant policy analysis and to help build the research capacity in developing countries. Our work contributes to policy and financial decisions at the national and international level in countries around the world. A Ph.D. in economics, public policy, or related social science field, with expertise in econometrics or applied statistics. Application deadline: January 31, 2015.

CPC STUDENT OPPORTUNITIES

Demography Minor. The CPC offers a campus-wide minor in Demography that is open to PhD students in all social science graduate fields.
