FUNDING OPPORTUNITIES AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

2015-16 AAAS Science & Technology Policy Fellowships. Deadline: November 1, 2014.

Call for Pre-proposals: 2015-2018 ISS Theme Projects. Pre-proposals due: February 2, 2015.

NICHD/NIH, Population Dynamics Branch \(PDB\). The PDB (formerly the Demographic and Behavioral Sciences Branch) supports research and research training in demography, reproductive health, and population health. Ongoing FOAs.

NIA/NIH, Division of Behavioral and Social Research \(BSR\). The Division of Behavioral and Social Research (BSR) supports social, behavioral, and economic research and research training on the processes of aging at both the individual and societal level. Ongoing FOAs.

EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

Bilingual Early Childhood Research Analyst, Mathematica Policy Research. Mathematica is seeking a research analyst focused on early childhood research fluent in Spanish and English. As a human services research analyst, you would join our staff of research professionals, which includes doctoral level researchers in the fields of public policy, social sciences, and economics, as well as other master's-level analysts and bachelor's-level research assistants/programmers. We offer our employees a stimulating team-oriented work environment, competitive salaries, and a comprehensive benefits package, as well as the advantages of employee ownership. Open until filled.

Health Scientist Administrator, NIH. Global Recruitment: Recruiting for all of NIH. All Positions are located in Montgomery County, Maryland Postings available September 19, 2014. Open until filled.

Senior Policy Analyst, International Programs, PopPov. PRB manages the Secretariat of the Population and Poverty Network (PopPov), a group of academic researchers and funders from around the globe that is interested in how population dynamics (population growth, decline, age structure) impact economic outcomes. The Senior Policy Analyst reports to the director of the PopPov Secretariat. She/he engages in research reviews, publication of policy briefs, training and policy workshops, and other work related to advancing the PRB mission and the objectives of the PopPov Secretariat. Specific knowledge and understanding of policy issues related to economic demography of low- and middle-income countries (population, employment, labor force participation, and productivity). Open until filled.

Computational Social Science Postdoctoral Fellow, University of Chicago. We seek outstanding candidates for NSF-funded post-doctoral positions in computational social science at the University of Chicago. Working under the supervision of James Evans, post-docs will explore cutting-edge problems in social science methodology: the creation and fielding of interactive, intelligent surveys; the modeling of social and cultural influence; and automated methods for creating and decomposing knowledge networks. Positions will be associated with the Sociology Department and Knowledge Lab in the Computation Institute at the University of Chicago. Positions are for 2-3 years, contingent on annual reappointment. Minimum qualifications for this position are a PhD or expected PhD in social science (e.g., sociology, economics, political science) or a related field. Open until filled.

Assistant Professor of Sociology, American University. The Department of Sociology, College of Arts & Sciences, at American University (Washington, D.C.), invites applications for a tenure line appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin August 2015. The department seeks candidates with expertise in health, urban sociology, immigration and globalization or social inequality and with ability and interest to teach sociological theory. Application deadline: October 6, 2014.

CORNELL POPULATION CENTER

Postdoctoral Fellow, Dondena Centre for Research on Social Dynamics, Università Bocconi. The Dondena Centre is seeking candidates for a post-doc on the project "Understanding the Micro and Macro Foundations of Trends and Inequalities in Global Health," as coordinated by Dr. Ross Macmillan. Preferred candidates would have a background in the social sciences and/or applied statistics, as well as population health research, including demography and/or epidemiology. Application deadline: October 7, 2014.

Postdoctoral Researcher, Department of Human Geography, Stockholm University. The postdoctoral researcher is expected to function in the project 'Residential Segregation in five European countries: A comparative study using individualized scalable neighbourhoods' that runs for the period September 2014–August 2017. The project employs an innovative technology for residential segregation and its effects on social inclusion. The innovative approach uses the increased availability of geocoded individual data to construct individualized scalable neighbourhoods to measure segregation. These segregation measurements will be used to compare patterns of segregation across European cities, to evaluate theories about the driving forces of residential segregation and to examine which effects area-based interventions have on segregation. We welcome applicants with a background in human geography, demography, economics, statistics, sociology, or other related social sciences. Application deadline: October 8, 2014.

Research Fellow in Social Statistics, ARC Centre of Excellence Life Course Centre, The University of Queensland. The Life Course Centre seeks to appoint two suitably qualified academic research staff to undertake research, training and administrative duties associated with the Centre's research programs. The successful appointee for this position will provide leadership in the enhancement of statistical methodology for life course research and be responsible for project management in the Life Course Centre. Applicants should possess a PhD in relevant disciplines. The successful applicant will have skills and experience in survey and sampling methods, statistical analysis methods for large and complex longitudinal data, development of training workshops on statistical methods for social research and management of research projects with a large statistical component. Application deadline: October 12, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Sociology, Kenyon College. Kenyon College invites applications for a tenure-track position in sociology at the rank of Assistant Professor beginning in July 2015. Candidates must possess a Ph.D. in sociology by Fall 2015. Some teaching experience and a demonstrated commitment to undergraduate teaching and active scholarship are also expected. We seek candidates whose teaching and research focus on rural society and whose areas of expertise include one or more of the following sub-fields: demography, social psychology, education, organizations, and environmental sociology. Application deadline: October 15, 2014.

\(2\) Tenure-track Assistant Professors of Sociology, Louisiana State University. The Department of Sociology invites applications for two tenure-track assistant professor positions (position number 000332/027390) beginning August 2015. We seek applicants with specializations in 1) social demography and 2) social networks to enhance our existing strengths in these areas. For the position in social networks, priority will be given to applicants who apply this expertise to the sociology of education, though other areas will be considered. Required qualifications: Ph.D. in Sociology or related field. Application deadline: October 15, 2014.

Open Rank Professor of Social Policy/Public Policy Analysis, Indiana University. The School of Public and Environmental Affairs (SPEA) at Indiana University seeks applicants for a full-time tenure-track faculty position on the Bloomington campus in the area of social policy. Candidates from different disciplinary backgrounds but who specialize in social policy are invited to apply. We are especially seeking candidates with research expertise in one or more of the following areas: poverty and inequality, employment, education, immigration, health, and urban policy. A Ph.D. in public policy, economics, statistics, sociology or other related field is required. Application deadline: October 15, 2014.

CORNELL POPULATION CENTER

\(2\) Open Rank Professor of Quantitative Methods, Harvard University. The Harvard Graduate School of Education (HGSE) invites applications for two faculty positions in Quantitative Methods, at the rank of Assistant Professor of Education, Associate Professor of Education (untentured), or Professor of Education (tenured), depending on qualifications and experience. We are seeking candidates who are trained to a high level in quantitative methods and who have a thorough understanding of the theoretical and statistical underpinnings of those methods. Candidates must also have a clear focus on the application of methods to important practical problems in education. We particularly welcome applicants with a specialization in multilevel modeling, longitudinal modeling, structural equation modeling, or measurement, but we are interested in a broad range of methodological specialties and welcome applications from candidates with specializations other than these. Application deadline: October 15, 2014.

Open Rank Professor of Sociology, University of Utah. The Department of Sociology at the University of Utah invites applications for an open-rank tenure-track position to begin on July 1, 2015. We are seeking a sociologist who will contribute to the Department specialty in Population and Health. All research areas within a general population and health framework will be considered. Examples of specific areas of research include, but are not limited to, social inequalities in mental and physical health, migration, population aging and life course, family demography, global health, and statistical methods in population research. Application deadline: October 15, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Rural Development, Departments of Geography and Sociology/Anthropology, Ohio University. The Ohio University Departments of Geography and Sociology/Anthropology invite applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Rural Development, with specialization in the areas of poverty and/or inequality and related expertise in community, development, or environmental sustainability, beginning in fall of 2015. A focus on the Appalachian region is strongly preferred, though we will welcome applications from candidates whose research focuses on other rural geographic areas within the U.S. Methodological expertise may include qualitative, quantitative, or spatial analytical methods. Application deadline: October 27, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Sociology, Mississippi State. The Department of Sociology seeks qualified applicants for a tenure-track entry level Assistant Professor position to begin in Fall 2015. A Ph.D. in Sociology is required for appointment at the Assistant Professor level. Primary area of teaching and research will be in social demography with ability to teach quantitative methods at the graduate level. Secondary area of specialization is open, though specialization in areas of research and teaching that include rural, community, or international development are preferred. Application deadline: October 31, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Demography, UC Berkeley. The Department of Demography at the University of California, Berkeley seeks applications for a tenure-track assistant professor with an expected start date of July 1, 2015. The position is not restricted by subfield and applicants with interdisciplinary interests are encouraged. The position's duties include: academic research and publications, undergraduate and graduate teaching, and administrative service. The department is interested in candidates who will contribute to diversity and equal opportunity in higher education through their teaching, research, and service. We welcome degrees in demography as well as related fields, including but not limited to sociology, statistics, history, economics, and population biology. Application deadline: October 31, 2014.

UC President's Postdoctoral Fellowships. The University of California President's Postdoctoral Fellowship Program was established in 1984 to encourage outstanding women and minority Ph.D. recipients to pursue academic careers at the University of California. The current program offers postdoctoral research fellowships, professional development and faculty mentoring to outstanding scholars in all fields whose research, teaching, and service will contribute to diversity and equal opportunity at UC. Application deadline: November 1, 2014.

CORNELL POPULATION CENTER

Assistant Professor in Developmental Methodology, Tufts University. The Eliot-Pearson Department of Child Study and Human Development at Tufts University invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor beginning September 2016. For the 2015-2016 academic year, the successful candidate may have an opportunity to serve, if eligible, as a post-doctoral fellow in the Institute of Applied Research in Youth Development, one of the major research centers in the Department. In September 2016, the successful candidate will begin teaching existing courses and developing new courses in statistical methods in developmental science; doing research; and consulting with faculty, postdocs, and graduate students. Application deadline: November 1, 2014.

Open Rank Professor of Social and Cultural Dimensions of Health, UCLA. UCLA's Department of Psychiatry and Biobehavioral Sciences and the Semel Institute for Neuroscience and Human Behavior (an interdisciplinary research and education institute devoted to the understanding of complex human behavior), in collaboration with the UCLA Division of Social Sciences, are seeking applications for a full-time tenure-equivalent faculty position at the Assistant, Associate or Full Professor rank; level to be commensurate with background and experience. Applicants must have a demonstrated record of excellence in scholarship that focuses on the social and cultural dimensions of psychological or physical health and human functioning at the individual or population level. Specific area of expertise is open, but we are particularly interested in scholars who consider the role of psychosocial, biological, or cultural factors, or take a developmental or lifespan perspective in their work. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2014, and the final deadline for application submission is November 1, 2014.

Assistant or Associate Professor, University of Wisconsin-Madison. The School of Human Ecology at the University of Wisconsin-Madison is seeking to hire a scholar (job #79387) with a record of applied research in the area of family and financial well-being in middle and later life. To be filled at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor, this is 12-month, tenure-track appointment. 75% of this appointment will be as a program specialist for Family Living Programs, University of Wisconsin Cooperative Extension, and 25% as a faculty member in either the Department of Human Development and Family Studies, or the Department of Consumer Science. PhD Human Development and Family Studies, Consumer Science, Psychology, Sociology, Education, Economics, Social Work or a related discipline. Application deadline: November 3, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Public Policy, Oregon State University. The School of Public Policy invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor (Job#0013004) in the area of Race, Gender, and Class Inequality in Education to begin 9/16/2105. The successful applicant must have a PhD in Sociology, Political Science, Economics, Public Policy or closely related discipline. Application deadline: November 15, 2014.

National Poverty Fellows Program. The National Poverty Fellows Program offers talented postdoctoral researchers an opportunity to participate in a federal government-university partnership. The goal of the program is both to build the capacity of researchers to conduct high-quality policy-relevant research on poverty and inequality in the United States and to contribute to the effective use of research and scientific knowledge in the formation of public policy. The fellowship is open to all postdoctoral scholars who are within six years of their degree. The fellowship will last for between one and two years and up to three fellows will be selected in this recruitment. Application deadline: November 21, 2014.

Associate/Full Professor of Urban Sociology, Temple University. The Department of Sociology at Temple University seeks to hire a tenured Associate or Full Professor in the field of urban sociology for Fall 2015. We seek a scholar who studies cities and the role of space in people's lives. We want to hire an urban sociologist who is grounded in contemporary urban theoretical issues and debates, skilled in designing empirical studies of cities and with interest in and/or experience with conducting funded research. This faculty member is expected to teach undergraduate and graduate survey courses on urban sociology as well as specialized and advanced courses in their interest area(s). Application deadline: November 30, 2014.

CORNELL POPULATION CENTER

Postdoctoral Fellowship, Harvard Center for Population and Development Studies. Applications are now being accepted for the next cohort (Sept 2015-August 2017) of David E. Bell Postdoctoral Fellows. The program provides opportunities for interdisciplinary, population science research and leadership training in a two year non-degree program. Selected candidates possess a strong record of academic training, proven research experience, a commitment to population and development work, the demonstrated ability to work independently, and leadership potential. Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

Economist, Office of the Commissioner/Office of Planning, Food and Drug Administration. The FDA anticipates openings for economists at the GS-12 to GS-13 level and at the GS-14 level. Positions are on the Economics Staff, Office of Planning in the Office of the Commissioner, and cover agency responsibilities for prescription and over-the-counter drugs, medical and radiological devices, biological products, tobacco, food safety and nutrition, and veterinary products. Duties include conducting cost-benefit analyses of regulations and agency policies; quantitative, statistical, and risk analyses; and mission related economic research. Successful candidates must be able to write and speak clearly to groups of different sizes and backgrounds, and to work independently and on multi-disciplinary teams. U.S. citizenship is required. We welcome all candidates with expertise in applied microeconomics (such as health, labor and demography, development, environmental, IO, welfare economics, and international trade) or regulatory economics. Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

Human Services Researcher, Mathematica. Mathematica is a nationally recognized research organization that conducts public policy studies in the areas of early childhood, nutrition, education, labor, family support, health care, disability, and international development. We are looking to hire several Ph.D.-level researchers to lead significant studies. Mathematica is currently conducting over 200 studies. Ph.D. or equivalent in economics, public policy, sociology, demography, statistics, psychology, education, or a related field Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

Economists, U.S. Census Bureau. The U.S. Census Bureau anticipates multiple job openings for economists. The Census Bureau provides an excellent environment for empirically-oriented economists to use confidential microdata on businesses and households, linked employer-employee data, and confidential microdata from federal and state administrative and statistical agencies to conduct research on a wide range of topics. These topics include business dynamics (industrial organization, productivity, trade, entrepreneurship, and innovation); labor dynamics (employment activity and worker flows); income dynamics (earnings, taxation, assets, poverty, and program participation); health (disability, health status, and insurance markets); household dynamics (housing, family structure, education, and migration); and disclosure avoidance techniques (confidentiality and privacy research). Application deadline: December 15, 2014.

Economist, Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. The Microeconomics Group at the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago seeks an economist at any experience level to conduct empirical research on applied microeconomics issues such as labor markets, immigration, education, public finance, consumer finance, or industrial organization. Application deadline: December 31, 2014.

Development Economist, American Institutes for Research \(AIR\). The American Institutes for Research (AIR) has opportunities available in Washington, D.C. for a Development Economist to work in the International Development, Evaluation, and Research program (IDER). AIR's international work improves the quality of life in developing countries by using rigorous research and evaluation to enhance education and social development. IDER conducts impact evaluations on a wide range of topics including cash transfer programs, early childhood nutrition programs, education interventions, health product distribution programs, and agricultural interventions. We partner with locally based researchers to provide context relevant policy analysis and to help build the research capacity in developing countries. Our work contributes to policy and financial decisions at the national and international level in countries around the world. A Ph.D. in economics, public policy, or related social science field, with expertise in econometrics or applied statistics. Application deadline: January 31, 2015.

RAND Postdoctoral Training Program in the Study of Aging. The RAND Postdoctoral Training Program in the Study of Aging enables outstanding junior scholars in demographic and aging research to sharpen their analytic skills, learn to communicate research results effectively, and advance their research agenda. Housed within RAND Labor and Population, the program blends formal and informal training and extensive collaboration with distinguished researchers in a variety of disciplines. Fellowships are for one year, renewable for a second. Each fellow receives a competitive annual stipend, travel stipend and health insurance. Application deadline: February 20, 2014.

CPC STUDENT OPPORTUNITIES

Demography Minor. The CPC offers a campus-wide minor in Demography that is open to PhD students in all social science graduate fields. Admission to the Demography minor requires that at least one member of the student's special committee is a CPC affiliate. Students interested in signing up for the Demography minor should contact Lindy Williams or Geysa Smiljanic.

International Advanced Studies in Demography \(IDEM\) program. January 26-31, 2015. Max Planck Institute for Demographic Research (MPIDR), Rostock, Germany. Applicants should either be enrolled in a MSc or PhD program (more advanced students will be favored) or have recently received their PhD. Application deadline: October 10, 2014.

CPC Graduate Student Reading Group. The Demography/Population reading group will meet in Fall 2014. For each meeting, a participant will serve as the leader, providing 2 or 3 articles and/or chapters to read related to their topic of interest. This group will facilitate student exposure to a breadth of literature across all of population studies and also develop some cross-disciplinary links. If you are interested in participating, please just send your name, department, and general area of interest/specialty to Christopher Gronberg.

Center for Economic Studies Dissertation Mentorship Program. The Center for Economic Studies wants to assist doctoral candidates who are actively engaged in dissertation research in economics or a related field using Census Bureau microdata at a Research Data Center. Eligible candidates must be actively working on a Ph.D. thesis in economics or a related field using Census Bureau microdata at a Research Data Center. Acceptance will be on a rolling basis, as funding and staffing resources allow.
