EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

Frank H.T. Rhodes Postdoctoral Fellowship, Cornell Population Center. The Cornell Population Center (CPC) invites applicants for the Frank H.T. Rhodes Post-doctoral Fellowships. The start date for the position will be August 15, 2015 and will be funded for 2 years, subject to a satisfactory first year evaluation. Selection will be based on scholarly potential, ability to work in multi-disciplinary settings, and the support of a faculty mentor and CPC affiliate at Cornell who will work closely with the post-doctoral associate. Preference will be given to fellows with research interests in areas broadly related to the CPC’s four main foci: families & children; health behaviors & disparities; poverty & inequality; and immigration & diversity. Especially encouraged are applications from candidates whose research has significance for those countries on which the fellowship’s funder focuses – the United States, the Republic of Ireland, Northern Ireland, Vietnam, South Africa, and Bermuda. Screening of applications begins December 1, 2014, and will continue until the position is filled.

CORNELL POPULATION CENTER

Postdoctoral Research Associate, University of Colorado-Boulder. The Institute of Behavioral Science at the University of Colorado at Boulder invites applications for a two-year post-doctoral research associate position, beginning no later than the Fall of 2015. The position will involve working in Professor Myron Gutmann's research group, focusing on research that links population and environment and on issues in data science related to data access and preservation. Open until filled.

\(3\) Associate/ Full Professor of Successful Longevity, Florida State University. The Department of Urban and Regional Planning invites applications for positions in the new interdisciplinary FSU Center on Public Policy for Successful Aging located within the College of Social Sciences and Public Policy. The Center is seeking three scholars at the associate or full professor level who will have a tenured appointment in a unit in the College. Successful candidates are expected to have a strong record of funded research and demonstrated a commitment to interdisciplinary research on public policy issues related to successful longevity. Open until filled.

\(2\) Assistant/Advanced Assistant Professor of Sociology, UMass Amherst. One position is Open with strong preference for a candidate whose research and teaching address Law, Crime, and Incarceration. The second position is Open although some preference may be given to candidates whose research and teaching address any of the following areas: (1) Class Inequality, (2) Quantitative Methods/Demography, (3) Textual Analysis using the Internet, and (4) Culture and Identity. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in sociology or a closely related field and a record of scholarly achievement appropriate for appointment at the Assistant Professor rank at a research-intensive university. Open until filled.

Bilingual Early Childhood Research Analyst, Mathematica Policy Research. Mathematica is seeking a research analyst focused on early childhood research fluent in Spanish and English. As a human services research analyst, you would join our staff of research professionals, which includes doctoral level researchers in the fields of public policy, social sciences, and economics, as well as other master's-level analysts and bachelor's-level research assistants/programmers. We offer our employees a stimulating team-oriented work environment, competitive salaries, and a comprehensive benefits package, as well as the advantages of employee ownership. Open until filled.

Senior Policy Analyst, International Programs, PopPov. PRB manages the Secretariat of the Population and Poverty Network (PopPov), a group of academic researchers and funders from around the globe that is interested in how population dynamics (population growth, decline, age structure) impact economic outcomes. The Senior Policy Analyst reports to the director of the PopPov Secretariat. She/he engages in research reviews, publication of policy briefs, training and policy workshops, and other work related to advancing the PRB mission and the objectives of the PopPov Secretariat. Specific knowledge and understanding of policy issues related to economic demography of low- and middle-income countries (population, employment, labor force participation, and productivity). Open until filled.

Computational Social Science Postdoctoral Fellow, University of Chicago. We seek outstanding candidates for NSF-funded post-doctoral positions in computational social science at the University of Chicago. Working under the supervision of James Evans, post-docs will explore cutting-edge problems in social science methodology: the creation and fielding of interactive, intelligent surveys; the modeling of social and cultural influence; and automated methods for creating and decomposing knowledge networks. Positions will be associated with the Sociology Department and Knowledge Lab in the Computation Institute at the University of Chicago. Positions are for 2-3 years, contingent on annual reappointment. Minimum qualifications for this position are a PhD or expected PhD in social science (e.g., sociology, economics, political science) or a related field. Open until filled.

Assistant Professor of Sociology, University of Arizona. University of Arizona invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position (#56632) to begin Fall 2015, contingent upon availability of funding.

CORNELL POPULATION CENTER

Preference for candidates who work on topics in stratification, broadly construed, an area that includes health outcomes among its topics. Full consideration deadline: October 26, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Rural Development, Departments of Geography and Sociology/Anthropology, Ohio University. The Ohio University Departments of Geography and Sociology/Anthropology invite applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor of Rural Development, with specialization in the areas of poverty and/or inequality and related expertise in community, development, or environmental sustainability, beginning in fall of 2015. A focus on the Appalachian region is strongly preferred, though we will welcome applications from candidates whose research focuses on other rural geographic areas within the U.S. Methodological expertise may include qualitative, quantitative, or spatial analytical methods. Application deadline: October 27, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Inequality/Migration, University of Washington. The University of Washington Department of Sociology invites applications for one permanent full-time tenure track Assistant Professor position in the area of stratification/social inequality and/or migration/immigration to begin September 2015. Applications from scholars whose research addresses both of these topics are of particular interest. Researchers using a diverse set of methodological approaches are encouraged to apply. We are also interested in candidates whose research interests complement other subfields in sociology and/or our research/education affiliate centers. Application deadline: October 31, 2014.

IRLE Public Policy Research Fellowship, UCLA. In 2015, the UCLA Institute for Research on Labor and Employment will offer a one-year Public Policy Fellowship to graduates of a recent graduate degree program in the fields of law, public policy, economics, political science, sociology, or a related field. The purpose of the fellowship is to support the public policy research of the IRLE on and labor and employment issues. Application deadline: October 31, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Sociology, Mississippi State. The Department of Sociology seeks qualified applicants for a tenure-track entry level Assistant Professor position to begin in Fall 2015. A Ph.D. in Sociology is required for appointment at the Assistant Professor level. Primary area of teaching and research will be in social demography with ability to teach quantitative methods at the graduate level. Secondary area of specialization is open, though specialization in areas of research and teaching that include rural, community, or international development are preferred. Application deadline: October 31, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Demography, UC Berkeley. The Department of Demography at the University of California, Berkeley seeks applications for a tenure-track assistant professor with an expected start date of July 1, 2015. The position is not restricted by subfield and applicants with interdisciplinary interests are encouraged. The position's duties include: academic research and publications, undergraduate and graduate teaching, and administrative service. The department is interested in candidates who will contribute to diversity and equal opportunity in higher education through their teaching, research, and service. We welcome degrees in demography as well as related fields, including but not limited to sociology, statistics, history, economics, and population biology. Application deadline: October 31, 2014.

UC President's Postdoctoral Fellowships. The University of California President's Postdoctoral Fellowship Program was established in 1984 to encourage outstanding women and minority Ph.D. recipients to pursue academic careers at the University of California. The current program offers postdoctoral research fellowships, professional development and faculty mentoring to outstanding scholars in all fields whose research, teaching, and service will contribute to diversity and equal opportunity at UC. Application deadline: November 1, 2014.

Assistant Professor in Developmental Methodology, Tufts University. The Eliot-Pearson Department of Child Study and Human Development at Tufts University invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor beginning September 2016. For the 2015-2016 academic year, the successful candidate may have an opportunity to serve, if eligible, as a post-doctoral fellow in the Institute of Applied Research in Youth Development, one of the major research centers in the Department. In September 2016, the successful candidate will begin teaching existing courses and developing new courses in statistical methods in developmental science; doing research; and consulting with faculty, postdocs, and graduate students. Application deadline: November 1, 2014.

Open Rank Professor of Social and Cultural Dimensions of Health, UCLA. UCLA's Department of Psychiatry and Biobehavioral Sciences and the Semel Institute for Neuroscience and Human Behavior (an interdisciplinary research and education institute devoted to the understanding of complex human behavior), in collaboration with the UCLA Division of Social Sciences, are seeking applications for a full-time tenure-equivalent faculty position at the Assistant, Associate or Full Professor rank; level to be commensurate with background and experience. Applicants must have a demonstrated record of excellence in scholarship that focuses on the social and cultural dimensions of psychological or physical health and human functioning at the individual or population level. Specific area of expertise is open, but we are particularly interested in scholars who consider the role of psychosocial, biological, or cultural factors, or take a developmental or lifespan perspective in their work. Review of applications will begin on September 15, 2014, and the final deadline for application submission is November 1, 2014.

Assistant/Associate Professor of Population Health Management and Policy, University of Michigan. The Department of Health Management and Policy at the University of Michigan School of Public Health is seeking a tenure-track assistant or associate professor in the area of population health management and policy. The ideal candidate has evidence or promise of an externally-funded research agenda that broadly addresses either population health management or health and health care disparities. For instance, we are interested in candidates working with special populations, such as urban, rural, disadvantaged, or vulnerable communities. Minimum requirements include an earned doctorate in fields such as sociology, demography, psychology, epidemiology, genetics, political science, statistics, economics, public health, or other relevant discipline. The successful candidate will also have strong mentoring and teaching abilities. Application deadline: November 3, 2014.

Assistant or Associate Professor, University of Wisconsin-Madison. The School of Human Ecology at the University of Wisconsin-Madison is seeking to hire a scholar (job #79387) with a record of applied research in the area of family and financial well-being in middle and later life. To be filled at the rank of Assistant or Associate Professor, this is 12-month, tenure-track appointment. 75% of this appointment will be as a program specialist for Family Living Programs, University of Wisconsin Cooperative Extension, and 25% as a faculty member in either the Department of Human Development and Family Studies, or the Department of Consumer Science. PhD Human Development and Family Studies, Consumer Science, Psychology, Sociology, Education, Economics, Social Work or a related discipline. Application deadline: November 3, 2014.

Assistant/Associate Professor of Economics, UMass Amherst. The Economics Department at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst invites applications for tenure-system appointment with preference for candidates at the Associate or advanced Assistant Professor levels. Our faculty employ a wide range of mainstream and heterodox approaches, and the position is open to all fields of economics including but not limited to microeconomics, feminist economics, macroeconomics, and development economics. Application deadline: November 14, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Public Policy, Oregon State University. The School of Public Policy invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor (Job#0013004) in the area of Race, Gender, and Class Inequality in Education to begin 9/16/2105. The successful applicant must have a PhD in Sociology, Political Science, Economics, Public Policy or closely related discipline. Application deadline: November 15, 2014.

CORNELL POPULATION CENTER

National Poverty Fellows Program. The National Poverty Fellows Program offers talented postdoctoral researchers an opportunity to participate in a federal government-university partnership. The goal of the program is both to build the capacity of researchers to conduct high-quality policy-relevant research on poverty and inequality in the United States and to contribute to the effective use of research and scientific knowledge in the formation of public policy. The fellowship is open to all postdoctoral scholars who are within six years of their degree. The fellowship will last for between one and two years and up to three fellows will be selected in this recruitment. Application deadline: November 21, 2014.

Associate/Full Professor of Urban Sociology, Temple University. The Department of Sociology at Temple University seeks to hire a tenured Associate or Full Professor in the field of urban sociology for Fall 2015. We seek a scholar who studies cities and the role of space in people's lives. We want to hire an urban sociologist who is grounded in contemporary urban theoretical issues and debates, skilled in designing empirical studies of cities and with interest in and/or experience with conducting funded research. This faculty member is expected to teach undergraduate and graduate survey courses on urban sociology as well as specialized and advanced courses in their interest area(s). Application deadline: November 30, 2014.

Postdoctoral Researcher, Department of Sociology, Stockholm University. The Department of Sociology is hiring a postdoctoral researcher (#SU FV-2919-14) to the Forte-funded project Social Networks and Health: A Panel Study. The aim of the project is to use unique longitudinal data, combining survey and register data, in order to analyze the effects of social networks and other contextual factors (neighborhoods and schools) on health and health behaviors among young Swedish adults with and without foreign born parents. We expect the successful applicant(s) to pursue state-of-the-art quantitative data analysis and to write articles aimed for publication in international journals, independently and in collaboration with other researchers in the group. Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

Postdoctoral Researcher, Department of Sociology, Stockholm University. The Department of Sociology is hiring a postdoctoral researcher (#SU FV-2920-14) to the ERC-funded project Individual Life Chances in Social Context - A Longitudinal Multi-Methods Perspective on Social Constraints and Opportunities. The aim of the project is to use unique longitudinal data, combining survey and register data, in order to analyze the effects of social networks and other contextual factors (neighborhoods and schools) on the life chances of young Swedish adults with and without foreign born parents in Sweden. Examples of life chances that are studied in this project are health, health behaviors, education, and labor market outcomes. We expect the successful applicant(s) to pursue state-of-the-art quantitative data analysis and to write articles aimed for publication in international journals, independently and in collaboration with other researchers in the group. Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

Research Fellow, Education, Public Policy Institute of California \(PPIC\). Research fellows must have excellent skills in quantitative research, writing, external policy engagement, and communications. Research fellows have doctoral degrees from various disciplines, including demography, economics, education policy, political science, public policy, sociology, and others. Candidates should be able to demonstrate significant interest in connecting research to policy making. We seek applicants at various stages in their careers, including recent Ph.D. graduates as well as mid-career and senior level researchers. While a background in California education policy is an advantage, we also seek applicants with federal and/or other state-level education policy experience that could be translated to the California context. Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

Postdoctoral Fellowship, Harvard Center for Population and Development Studies. Applications are now being accepted for the next cohort (Sept 2015-August 2017) of David E. Bell Postdoctoral Fellows. The program provides opportunities for interdisciplinary, population science research and leadership training in a two year non-degree program. Selected candidates possess a strong record of academic training, proven research experience, a commitment to population and development work, the demonstrated ability to work independently, and leadership potential. Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

Economist, Office of the Commissioner/Office of Planning, Food and Drug Administration. The FDA anticipates openings for economists at the GS-12 to GS-13 level and at the GS-14 level. Positions are on the Economics Staff, Office of Planning in the Office of the Commissioner, and cover agency responsibilities for prescription and over-the-counter drugs, medical and radiological devices, biological products, tobacco, food safety and nutrition, and veterinary products. Duties include conducting cost-benefit analyses of regulations and agency policies; quantitative, statistical, and risk analyses; and mission related economic research. Successful candidates must be able to write and speak clearly to groups of different sizes and backgrounds, and to work independently and on multi-disciplinary teams. U.S. citizenship is required. We welcome all candidates with expertise in applied microeconomics (such as health, labor and demography, development, environmental, IO, welfare economics, and international trade) or regulatory economics. Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

Human Services Researcher, Mathematica. Mathematica is a nationally recognized research organization that conducts public policy studies in the areas of early childhood, nutrition, education, labor, family support, health care, disability, and international development. We are looking to hire several Ph.D.-level researchers to lead significant studies. Mathematica is currently conducting over 200 studies. Ph.D. or equivalent in economics, public policy, sociology, demography, statistics, psychology, education, or a related field Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

Economists, U.S. Census Bureau. The U.S. Census Bureau anticipates multiple job openings for economists. The Census Bureau provides an excellent environment for empirically-oriented economists to use confidential microdata on businesses and households, linked employer-employee data, and confidential microdata from federal and state administrative and statistical agencies to conduct research on a wide range of topics. These topics include business dynamics (industrial organization, productivity, trade, entrepreneurship, and innovation); labor dynamics (employment activity and worker flows); income dynamics (earnings, taxation, assets, poverty, and program participation); health (disability, health status, and insurance markets); household dynamics (housing, family structure, education, and migration); and disclosure avoidance techniques (confidentiality and privacy research). Application deadline: December 15, 2014.

Economist, Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. The Microeconomics Group at the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago seeks an economist at any experience level to conduct empirical research on applied microeconomics issues such as labor markets, immigration, education, public finance, consumer finance, or industrial organization. Application deadline: December 31, 2014.

Developing Asia Health Policy Fellowship, Stanford University. The Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center, Stanford University (Shorenstein APARC) and the Asia Pacific Observatory on Health Systems and Policy (APO) are pleased to announce their collaborative Developing Asia Health Policy Fellowship. The Postdoctoral Fellow will participate in the Stanford Asia Health Policy Program while undertaking original research on contemporary health or healthcare policy of high relevance to countries in the Asia-Pacific region. The Fellow will benefit from the APO network of researchers and research institutions throughout the Asia Pacific region, including contacts with governments, to facilitate access to data and needed references for their research. Application deadline: January 15, 2015.

Associate Professor/Senior Lecturer of Sociology, Lund University. The Department of Sociology at Lund University seeks at least one Senior Lecturer (Associate Professor). The successful candidate will teach sociology courses on the Bachelors, Masters and PhD levels. The position includes 20 per cent research that, with support of external funding, can be extended up to 75 percent. The teaching languages are Swedish and English. The department expects a non-Swedish speaking successful candidate to learn and master Swedish within a reasonable time period. Application deadline: January 16, 2015.

Development Economist, American Institutes for Research \(AIR\). The American Institutes for Research (AIR) has opportunities available in Washington, D.C. for a Development Economist to work in the International Development, Evaluation, and Research program (IDER). AIR's international work improves the quality of life in developing countries by using rigorous research and evaluation to enhance education and social development. IDER conducts impact evaluations on a wide range of topics including cash transfer programs, early childhood nutrition programs, education interventions, health product distribution programs, and agricultural interventions. We partner with locally based researchers to provide context relevant policy analysis and to help build the research capacity in developing countries. Our work contributes to policy and financial decisions at the national and international level in countries around the world. A Ph.D. in economics, public policy, or related social science field, with expertise in econometrics or applied statistics. Application deadline: January 31, 2015.

RAND Postdoctoral Training Program in the Study of Aging. The RAND Postdoctoral Training Program in the Study of Aging enables outstanding junior scholars in demographic and aging research to sharpen their analytic skills, learn to communicate research results effectively, and advance their research agenda. Housed within RAND Labor and Population, the program blends formal and informal training and extensive collaboration with distinguished researchers in a variety of disciplines. Fellowships are for one year, renewable for a second. Each fellow receives a competitive annual stipend, travel stipend and health insurance. Application deadline: February 20, 2015.

CPC STUDENT OPPORTUNITIES

Demography Minor. The CPC offers a campus-wide minor in Demography that is open to PhD students in all social science graduate fields. Admission to the Demography minor requires that at least one member of the student's special committee is a CPC affiliate. Students interested in signing up for the Demography minor should contact Lindy Williams or Geysa Smiljanic.

CPC Graduate Student Reading Group. The Demography/Population reading group will meet in Fall 2014. For each meeting, a participant will serve as the leader, providing 2 or 3 articles and/or chapters to read related to their topic of interest. This group will facilitate student exposure to a breadth of literature across all of population studies and also develop some cross-disciplinary links. If you are interested in participating, please just send your name, department, and general area of interest/specialty to Christopher Gronberg.

Center for Economic Studies Dissertation Mentorship Program. The Center for Economic Studies wants to assist doctoral candidates who are actively engaged in dissertation research in economics or a related field using Census Bureau microdata at a Research Data Center. Eligible candidates must be actively working on a Ph.D. thesis in economics or a related field using Census Bureau microdata at a Research Data Center. Acceptance will be on a rolling basis, as funding and staffing resources allow.

Historical Demography at the University of Colorado-Boulder. The Department of History at the University of Colorado-Boulder, in partnership with CU-Boulder's Institute of Behavioral Science, hopes to recruit Ph.D.-level students with interests in quantitative approaches to the environmental and demographic history of the American West. Five year funding packages are available that combine research and teaching assistantships.
