EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

Frank H.T. Rhodes Postdoctoral Fellowship, Cornell Population Center. The Cornell Population Center (CPC) invites applicants for the Frank H.T. Rhodes Post-doctoral Fellowships. The start date for the position will be August 15, 2015 and will be funded for 2 years, subject to a satisfactory first year evaluation. Selection will be based on scholarly potential, ability to work in multi-disciplinary settings, and the support of a faculty mentor and CPC affiliate at Cornell who will work closely with the post-doctoral associate. Preference will be given to fellows with research interests in areas broadly related to the CPC’s four main foci: families & children; health behaviors & disparities; poverty & inequality; and immigration & diversity. Especially encouraged are applications from candidates whose research has significance for those countries on which the fellowship’s funder focuses – the United States, the Republic of Ireland, Northern Ireland, Vietnam, South Africa, and Bermuda. Screening of applications begins December 1, 2014, and will continue until the position is filled.

CORNELL POPULATION CENTER

Research Associate, Centre on Population Dynamics, McGill University, Montreal, Canada. The Centre on Population Dynamics is a university research centre that supports innovative population research on topics relating to health, work, family, aging, and migration. The Research Associate will assist with managing two projects in the slums of Nairobi, Kenya. Both projects entail the collection and monitoring of longitudinal data. The first project will assess the impact of affordable and higher quality day care services on poor women's employment and earnings by implementing a randomized control trial (RCT) offering mothers with young children daycare vouchers. The second examines the extent of kinship support single mothers with young children receive and its impact on child health. Candidate should have Ph.D. in sociology, economics, demography, or epidemiology with strong quantitative skills. Open until filled.

Carolina Postdoctoral Program for Faculty Diversity, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. As part of a continuing commitment to building a culturally diverse intellectual community and advancing scholars from underrepresented groups in higher education, The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill Carolina Postdoctoral Program for Faculty Diversity (CPPFD) is pleased to offer postdoctoral research appointments for a period of two years. The purpose of CPPFD is to develop scholars from underrepresented groups for possible tenure track appointments at the University of North Carolina and other research universities. Postdoctoral scholars will be engaged full-time in research and may teach only one course per fiscal year. Applications for study in any discipline represented at the University are welcome. Application deadline: November 15, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Public Policy, Oregon State University. The School of Public Policy invites applications for a full-time, tenure-track Assistant Professor (Job#0013004) in the area of Race, Gender, and Class Inequality in Education to begin 9/16/2105. The successful applicant must have a PhD in Sociology, Political Science, Economics, Public Policy or closely related discipline. Application deadline: November 15, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Sociology, Utrecht University \(Netherlands\). The Department of Sociology of the Faculty of Social and Behavioural Sciences, Utrecht University is recruiting an Assistant Professor of Sociology. The department has strong research traditions in a wide range of topics in Sociology including cooperation problems, social networks, stratification and inequality, households, and immigration. The ideal candidate has a PhD degree in one of the Social Sciences and has experience in conducting scientific research in fields that are complementary to the expertise of the staff of the Department of Sociology, such as crime, conflict or violence. Application deadline: November 16, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Economic Disparities, Haas Institute for a Fair and Inclusive Society, UC Berkeley. The Haas Institute for a Fair and Inclusive Society (HIFIS) at the University of California, Berkeley invites applications for a tenure-track faculty appointment related to Economic Disparities, with an expected start date of July 1, 2015. Scholars who have a program of research that bears on pressing social problems including (but not limited to) the urban landscape, health disparities, labor markets, inequality, housing markets, immigration, global labor flows, gendering and marginality, or environmental inequities. We are especially interested in scholars who investigate economic disparities, with a focus on spatial dimensions of economic disparities, geographies of inequity, African American communities or the African diaspora, or other underrepresented minority communities, either domestically or internationally. The successful candidate will have a PhD in a relevant discipline, such as geography, African American studies, economics, public policy, political science, demography, sociology, anthropology, or planning. Application deadline: November 17, 2014.

Senior Research Fellowship, Sociology Department at Vrije Universiteit Brussel. The Sociology Department at Vrije Universiteit Brussel seeks a senior research fellow with experience in empirical, quantitative research and a demonstrable interest in time use and/or career research. The main focus of the senior research fellowship is on theory development, methodology and empirical analyses in one of the two – but preferably at the crossroad of both – research domains (time use and careers) of the research group TOR (Tempus Omnia Revelat) of the Sociology Department at Vrije Universiteit Brussel. Application deadline: November 17, 2014.

CORNELL POPULATION CENTER

Assistant Professor of Health Behavior and Health Education, University of Michigan. The Department of Health Behavior and Health Education at the University of Michigan School of Public Health invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor faculty position in multi-level interventions to address health inequities to begin September 1, 2015. Candidates must have a doctorate degree in health behavior and health education or in the social and behavioral sciences (e.g., psychology, sociology, anthropology) or a related field (e.g., urban planning). We are seeking a scholar whose research addresses one or more of the following areas: racial and ethnic inequities in health; poverty and health inequities; injury; gender and health; sustainability; health of diverse populations; maternal and child health; culture and health; urbanization; healthy aging; and social determinants of health. Review of applications will begin November 20, 2014.

Postdoctoral Life Course Researcher, University of Lausanne \(NCCR LIVES\). The Swiss National Centre of Competence in Research "LIVES - Overcoming Vulnerability: Life Course Perspectives" (NCCR LIVES) offers a one-year postdoctoral position for a promising early career researcher in disciplines from the social sciences (social psychology, sociology, social demography, etc.). The candidate will join a research group already working in the framework of the NCCR LIVES. The NCCR LIVES is a very stimulating interdisciplinary and international scientific research environment. It analyses vulnerability across the life course from different perspectives and disciplines, notably on the basis of longitudinal data. 50% will be devoted to theoretical developments on the multilevel definition of vulnerability within the core of the NCCR LIVES. The other 50% will be devoted to empirical research of the candidate, preferably in collaboration with one of the individual research projects of the NCCR LIVES in which the supervisor is involved (IP1 and IP12). Application deadline: November 20, 2014.

National Poverty Fellows Program. The National Poverty Fellows Program offers talented postdoctoral researchers an opportunity to participate in a federal government-university partnership. The goal of the program is both to build the capacity of researchers to conduct high-quality policy-relevant research on poverty and inequality in the United States and to contribute to the effective use of research and scientific knowledge in the formation of public policy. The fellowship is open to all postdoctoral scholars who are within six years of their degree. The fellowship will last for between one and two years and up to three fellows will be selected in this recruitment. Application deadline: November 21, 2014.

Associate/Full Professor of Urban Sociology, Temple University. The Department of Sociology at Temple University seeks to hire a tenured Associate or Full Professor in the field of urban sociology for Fall 2015. We seek a scholar who studies cities and the role of space in people's lives. We want to hire an urban sociologist who is grounded in contemporary urban theoretical issues and debates, skilled in designing empirical studies of cities and with interest in and/or experience with conducting funded research. This faculty member is expected to teach undergraduate and graduate survey courses on urban sociology as well as specialized and advanced courses in their interest area(s). Application deadline: November 30, 2014.

Open Rank Professor of Applied Microeconomics, Cornell University. The Department of Policy Analysis and Management in the College of Human Ecology at Cornell University is seeking to hire a faculty member in Applied Microeconomics. Rank is open. This will be a tenure-track position, with responsibilities of 50% research and 50% teaching and advising. The new hire will conduct empirical research in one or more of the following applied microeconomics areas: behavioral economics, development, economic demography, education, health, law and economics, labor economics, public finance, and regulation. We are particularly interested in candidates whose research demonstrates methodological sophistication and who can teach undergraduate and graduate empirical methods courses. Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

\(2\) Assistant Professor of Economics \(Labor, Health, Development\), Vassar College. The Department of Economics at Vassar College invites applications for two tenure-track assistant professor positions to begin Fall 2015. Evidence of excellent teaching skills is essential. Teaching responsibilities will include a total of five courses drawn from introductory economics and intermediate economics in addition to courses in the successful candidate's field of specialization. Additional teaching areas could include economic history, history of economic thought and political economy. Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

Assistant Professor of Rural Sociology, Auburn University. Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology is accepting applications for the position of Assistant Professor of Rural Sociology with focus on Natural Resources, Food and Agricultural Systems, or Community and Rural Development. This is a 9-month tenure track position (60% research, 40% instruction). Research responsibilities include developing and implementing a nationally recognized research program in one or more aspects of natural resources, food and agriculture, community, and rural development, particularly as such systems relate to landscapes and land use issues, water and waterways, aquatic- and agroecosystems, and technological change. Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

Postdoctoral Researcher, Department of Sociology, Stockholm University. The Department of Sociology is hiring a postdoctoral researcher (#SU FV-2919-14) to the Forte-funded project Social Networks and Health: A Panel Study. The aim of the project is to use unique longitudinal data, combining survey and register data, in order to analyze the effects of social networks and other contextual factors (neighborhoods and schools) on health and health behaviors among young Swedish adults with and without foreign born parents. We expect the successful applicant(s) to pursue state-of-the-art quantitative data analysis and to write articles aimed for publication in international journals, independently and in collaboration with other researchers in the group. Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

Postdoctoral Researcher, Department of Sociology, Stockholm University. The Department of Sociology is hiring a postdoctoral researcher (#SU FV-2920-14) to the ERC-funded project Individual Life Chances in Social Context - A Longitudinal Multi-Methods Perspective on Social Constraints and Opportunities. The aim of the project is to use unique longitudinal data, combining survey and register data, in order to analyze the effects of social networks and other contextual factors (neighborhoods and schools) on the life chances of young Swedish adults with and without foreign born parents in Sweden. Examples of life chances that are studied in this project are health, health behaviors, education, and labor market outcomes. We expect the successful applicant(s) to pursue state-of-the-art quantitative data analysis and to write articles aimed for publication in international journals, independently and in collaboration with other researchers in the group. Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

Research Fellow, Education, Public Policy Institute of California \(PPIC\). Research fellows must have excellent skills in quantitative research, writing, external policy engagement, and communications. Research fellows have doctoral degrees from various disciplines, including demography, economics, education policy, political science, public policy, sociology, and others. Candidates should be able to demonstrate significant interest in connecting research to policy making. We seek applicants at various stages in their careers, including recent Ph.D. graduates as well as mid-career and senior level researchers. While a background in California education policy is an advantage, we also seek applicants with federal and/or other state-level education policy experience that could be translated to the California context. Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

Postdoctoral Fellowship, Harvard Center for Population and Development Studies. Applications are now being accepted for the next cohort (Sept 2015-August 2017) of David E. Bell Postdoctoral Fellows. The program provides opportunities for interdisciplinary, population science research and leadership training in a two year non-degree program. Selected candidates possess a strong record of academic training, proven research experience, a commitment to population and development work, the demonstrated ability to work independently, and leadership potential. Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

CORNELL POPULATION CENTER

Economist, Office of the Commissioner/Office of Planning, Food and Drug Administration. The FDA anticipates openings for economists at the GS-12 to GS-13 level and at the GS-14 level. Positions are on the Economics Staff, Office of Planning in the Office of the Commissioner, and cover agency responsibilities for prescription and over-the-counter drugs, medical and radiological devices, biological products, tobacco, food safety and nutrition, and veterinary products. Duties include conducting cost-benefit analyses of regulations and agency policies; quantitative, statistical, and risk analyses; and mission related economic research. Successful candidates must be able to write and speak clearly to groups of different sizes and backgrounds, and to work independently and on multi-disciplinary teams. U.S. citizenship is required. We welcome all candidates with expertise in applied microeconomics (such as health, labor and demography, development, environmental, IO, welfare economics, and international trade) or regulatory economics. Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

Human Services Researcher, Mathematica. Mathematica is a nationally recognized research organization that conducts public policy studies in the areas of early childhood, nutrition, education, labor, family support, health care, disability, and international development. We are looking to hire several Ph.D.-level researchers to lead significant studies. Mathematica is currently conducting over 200 studies. Ph.D. or equivalent in economics, public policy, sociology, demography, statistics, psychology, education, or a related field Application deadline: December 1, 2014.

NIH Ruth Kirschstein National Research Service Awards for Individual Postdoctoral Fellows. The National Institutes of Health (NIH) offers up to 3 years of fellowship support for postdoctoral scholars interested in biomedical and behavioral research. Open only to U.S. citizens or permanent residents. Must have a PhD or MD by the beginning date of the NRSA appointment. Applicants must identify a sponsoring institution and individual who will serve as a sponsor. Application deadline: December 8, 2014.

Research Fellowship, Mannheim Centre for European Social Research \(MZES\). The MZES is an interdisciplinary research institute of the University of Mannheim dedicated to comparative European social research and the analysis of European integration processes. The Centre seeks to recruit an outstanding social scientist as a Research Fellow to work in Research Department A "European Societies and their Integration." MZES Research Fellowships provide experienced researchers, preferably with previous postdoctoral experience, with an opportunity to pursue independent research within the framework of the Centre's Research Programme. Application deadline: December 9, 2014.

Economists, U.S. Census Bureau. The U.S. Census Bureau anticipates multiple job openings for economists. The Census Bureau provides an excellent environment for empirically-oriented economists to use confidential microdata on businesses and households, linked employer-employee data, and confidential microdata from federal and state administrative and statistical agencies to conduct research on a wide range of topics. These topics include business dynamics (industrial organization, productivity, trade, entrepreneurship, and innovation); labor dynamics (employment activity and worker flows); income dynamics (earnings, taxation, assets, poverty, and program participation); health (disability, health status, and insurance markets); household dynamics (housing, family structure, education, and migration); and disclosure avoidance techniques (confidentiality and privacy research). Application deadline: December 15, 2014.

PhDs, Post-Doctoral Fellows, and a Research Scientist, Max Planck Institute for Demographic Research \(MPIDR\). The newly established Max Planck Research Group: "Gender Gaps in Health and Survival" at the Max Planck Institute for Demographic Research (MPIDR) is seeking to make appointments at PhD (up to 2), Post-Doctoral Fellow (up to 2), and Research Scientist levels. The research of the group is multidisciplinary. Applicants for the post-doc and research scientist positions should have completed a PhD in epidemiology/public health, demography, statistics or related fields. Candidates for the post-doc positions may have a PhD near completion (e.g. submitted). All applicants should have a keen interest in health and mortality and a solid knowledge of statistical methods. Application deadline: December 31, 2014.

CORNELL POPULATION CENTER

Economist, Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. The Microeconomics Group at the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago seeks an economist at any experience level to conduct empirical research on applied microeconomics issues such as labor markets, immigration, education, public finance, consumer finance, or industrial organization. Application deadline: December 31, 2014.

\(3\) Assistant Professor of Geospatial Analysis, University of Central Florida. UCF seeks to strengthen its research mission and academic offerings in the broad interdisciplinary area of Geospatial Analysis. In support of this effort, the College of Sciences has established three tenure-earning assistant professor positions expected to begin in fall 2015. Ideal candidates will have a strong background in the application of GIS and other geospatial analytical approaches to address questions in their research area, a desire to collectively build curricula centered on geospatial science, and a passion for integrating multiple disciplines to confront challenges facing society. UCF is committed to the development of new hires in interdisciplinary clusters. Faculty will be expected to strengthen both their tenure home department (Anthropology, Biology, Political Science, or Sociology) as well as the geospatial cluster. Application deadline: January 1, 2015.

Assistant Professor of Sociology \(Quantitative Methods\), Virginia Tech. Virginia Tech invites applications for one full-time, nine-month, tenure-track position (#TR0140133) in quantitative methods in the Department of Sociology at the Assistant Professor level to begin Fall, 2015. Applicants must be competent in advanced quantitative methods and statistics. Additional competency in survey design and analysis is preferred. Substantive areas of research are open. Applicants must have Ph.D. in hand at the start of appointment. We seek a scholar who will contribute to graduate training in advanced quantitative methods, maintain a productive research program, and contribute to both the graduate and undergraduate programs.
